Cricket scores big in sponsorship, other sports also catching up

Business of sports in India grows 49 per cent in 2022 to ₹14,209 crore, finds GroupM

WANITA KOHLI-KHANDAKAR
7 June, 4 April

Football, kabaddi, kho kho and other sports got ₹2,094 crore, or 15 per cent, of the ₹14,209 crore that marketers spent on sports in 2022. As usual, the lion's share — 85 per cent (₹12,115 crore) — went to cricket. The good news, though, is that the share of emerging sports has gone up a bit — it was 13 per cent in 2021. These insights come from "Sporting Nation in the Making", GroupM's annual look at the sports sponsorship business.

The business of sports in India witnessed 49 per cent rise in 2022 to ₹14,209 crore; sponsorship is a subset and is worth ₹5,900 crore. The money that media companies spend on sports programming online, on TV and other media remains by far the biggest chunk of the ₹14,209 crore. Of this, TV remains the largest, albeit with a growth rate that is way lower than digital.

GroupM, one of India's largest media agencies, is part of a coalition led by PPF, which, along with Publicis, Interpublic and a few marketing services groups. The report, now in its tenth year, shows that sports, led by cricket, has not only maintained annual growth rate of 14 per cent.

The sports sponsorship business includes sponsorship, sports celebrity spends, and sports media spends. Vinit Kamrik, head, entertainment, esports and sports, GroupM, South Asia, is chuffed about the ecosystems developing around football, kabaddi, volleyball and the other sports. "For other sports to get this 2 per cent increase in share is not easy in a cricket-crazy country. Cricket has built its loyalty over 40 years," he says, adding, "The resilience of JSW, Tata, Indian Railways, so many organisations are putting in an effort into building other sports. For a country of 1.4 billion people, one sport is not enough. Our eventual goal should be to fit and sports-playing nation, not just a sport-watching one." The growth in sponsorship, which has more than doubled after the pandemic, stands out. This is essentially the money spent on on-ground advertising, team sponsorship and franchise fees.

The growth in endorsements (20 per cent) shows that at least some money is going to celebrities in sports other than cricket. Celebrity endorsement for other sports grew by 30 per cent against 18 per cent for cricket.

Cricket, especially the Indian Premier League (IPL), dominates the sports economy in India. But is it just men's cricket, which has always been up there, or will the Women's Premier League also manage to make money?

"It is the first season. The very fact that ₹91 crore was paid for media rights, that 4-6 teams got ₹90 crore as franchise fee, and that there are huge crowds and corporate support shows that it is a dream beginning. The real impact will be known after 10 years," thinks Kamrik.

On the subject of the exhaustion with IPL, a 15-year-old media property, and its ability to make a profit, he says the current season of the league, which began earlier this week, will be critical.

"Earlier, the revenues were camouflaged because TV and digital rights were sold together. This is a good year for the discovery of its real value since both the rights have been sold separately," says Kamrik.

Disney has the linear TV rights, while Jio's Viacom18 has the digital ones. Each of them paid roughly ₹24,000 crore for a five-year term. Added to this the operating, production and marketing costs. Not surprisingly, most analysts do not expect this IPL to make a profit. Disney India had paid ₹16,347 crore for both TV and digital rights for five years for the last IPL, which ended in 2022. It made an operating profit of just about ₹2,300 crore, according to Media Partners Asia data.

Rescue operations by the Army underway after an avalanche at Nathula in Sikkim on Tuesday

7 tourists killed, 23 rescued in massive Sikkim avalanche

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Gangtok, 4 April

Seven tourists were killed in a massive avalanche that hit East Sikkim's Nathu La area on Tuesday morning, burying their vehicles under the snow, officials said.

The avalanche hit the arterial Jawaharlal Nehru Marg, which connects state capital Gangtok to Nathu La at the China border, around 11.30 am, trapping five-six vehicles with around 30 people under the snow, the Indian Army said in a statement.

Seven bodies were brought out of the snow and 23 people were rescued alive, including six tourists from a deep valley, a state government official said, quoting reports from the Army. Those injured were admitted to different hospitals in Gangtok, around 55 km away, he said.

"Among those dead are a woman and a child, he added.

The search operation was called off in the evening due to inclement weather, another official said.

Condoling the deaths, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said he hopes the injured recover soon. "Distressed by the avalanche in Sikkim. Condolences to those who have lost their loved ones. I hope the injured recover soon. Rescue ops are underway and all possible assistance is being provided to those affected," Modi said in a tweet by his office.

Union Home Minister Amit Shah said the Centre was closely monitoring the situation. "My sincerest condolences to the families of those who have lost their lives in the tragic avalanche in Sikkim. We are closely monitoring the situation and the teams of NDRF will reach the affected area soon. I pray for the speedy recovery of those injured," he tweeted.

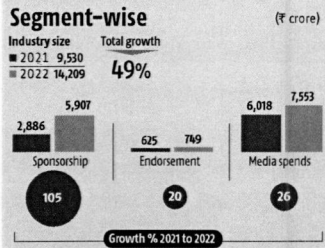

Nathu La, situated at 14,450 feet above sea level, is one of the three open trading border posts between India and China. It is a major tourist destination, and a part of the centuries-old silk route. Several permits are required to visit the area.

"The tourists were not permitted to travel beyond Milestone 13 due to inclement weather, but they forced the tour operators and the drivers to take them to the area — beyond milestones 13 and 17 — where the avalanche struck, a police officer said.

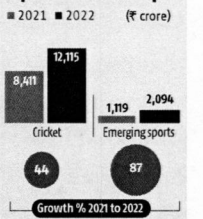

Some 350 people in 80 vehicles, stranded on the road because of the snow, were brought back to Gangtok after the snow was cleared in the afternoon, officials said.

"My heart goes out to the bereaved family and friends in this hour of grief and I pray that the departed souls rest in eternal peace," said Chief Minister Prem Singh Tamang.
