Oil slips as US stocks rise

REUTERS

London, October 23

Oil prices slipped towards $59 a barrel on Wednesday on data showing a bigger-than-expected rise in US crude stocks, while the prospect of deeper output cuts by OPEC and its allies offered support.

Brent crude futures were down 47 cents, or 0.79 per cent, to $59.23 a barrel at 1130 GMT. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude futures for December delivery fell 56 cents, or 1.03 per cent, to $53.92 per barrel.

US crude stocks rose by 4.5 million barrels to 437 million barrels in the week ended October 18, compared with analysts' expectations for a gain of 2.2 million barrels, data from industry group the American Petroleum Institute showed.

Inventory data from the US Energy Information Administration (EIA) is due later on Wednesday.

OPEC output cut

Helping underpin prices, the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) is mulling whether to deepen production cuts amid concerns of weak demand growth next year.

Some analysts were sceptical of OPEC's ability to further cut output.

"It will be a struggle to get members to cut a significant amount more, particularly if you have some members who are not pulling their weight when it comes to cuts," Dutch bank ING said in a note.

Meanwhile, easing trade tensions between China and the US, the world's two largest economies and biggest oil consumers, were also helping to cushion overall sentiment for oil, traders said.

ng," Trump said on Monday during a Cabinet meeting at the White House, referring to Chinese purchases of US agriculture products that the President has pushed for as part of deal. "I want more."

Waivers were issued to state-owned and private crushers as well as multinational processors based in China, the people said. While some traders remained optimistic about the sales, others pointed to lower prices in Brazil.

Lowest price

China will buy where the cheapest price is," said Joe Davis, a director at brokerage Futures International in Chicago. "They have plenty of time on the new tariff-free waivers so I would not expect that all at once in the US with the market at the highest levels since mid-June. These private buyers will wait to see if prices fall."
