Vodafone Idea Foundation's RUDI Sandeshva Vyavhar Project is Empowering Rural Women in Gujarat with Livelihood Opportunities, using technology

Sunvilla News: Ahmedabad

Like Dhruvin, over 4300 women across Patan, Kutch, Surendranagar, Gandhinagar, Ahmedabad, and Subarkantah in Gujarat have benefited from Vodafone Idea Foundation's RUDI Sandeshva Vyavhar initiative. RUDI Sandeshva Vyavhar was conceptualized to address the challenges faced by RUDIBans (rural women) to procure and sell agro-based food products to customers in timely manners. Acknowledging this issue, Vodafone Idea Foundation in partnership with Mahila Sewa Trust (MST) set-up a supply chain system with an android-based mobile application. The application provides a simple, localized, and real time solution to grassroots saleswomen for tracking customer needs and placing orders, tracking inventory, and managing their business efficiently. It has automated the supply chain process, bringing about a seamless integration between business functions such as accounts and finance, sales and distribution, procurement of raw material, dealers and distribution networks. As a result, it has enhanced efficiencies for RUDI women to sell farm produce within their local communities, reduced travel time for these women by 90 per cent, and helped generate more business opportunities. Commenting on the impact of the RSV project, P Balaji, Chief Regulatory & Corporate Affairs Officer, VIL, and Director, Vodafone.
