Personalise inflation rate to reach money goals

SAVE SMART. Instead of assuming 6-7 per cent price rise, here's some help on how to arrive at a customised figure

For much of 2022 and this year, globally, investors, governments, central banks and the lay gionairy, investors, govern-ments, central banks and the lay consumers alike are grappling with inflation, or the rate of price rise in goods and services. In the post-Covid, fully opened economy, countries around the world face rising inflation which, though decreasing from the double-digit levels last year, is still elevated. Every month, we have the consumer price inflation (CPI) figure released by the by the Ministry of Statistics and Pro-gramme Implementation (MoSPI).

However, often, we notice that the CPI figures that the MoSPI releases do not seem to rep-SPI releases do not seem to represent our own individual family's rate of price rise. In fact, many times, they seem off the mark from what we actually experience in our household budgets, by 2-3 percentage resents.

buagets, by points. Investment advisors, plan-ners and personal finance presentations ask us to assume 6-7 per cent as the likely infla-tion figure while planning for goals, which is again a generic

To be sure, the CPI and the general figure that advisors ask us to assume are important, and a good starting point to set the ball rolling. But a bit more work may be required to arrive at your personal figure.

How then do we make sense

How then do we make sense of inflation while planning for financial targets – children's education, marriago, retirement and so on? To answer that, we need to understand how inflation is calculated by MoSPI and howadvisors come up with their figures. We can then dwell on coming up with specific rates closer to our goals.

MEASURING INPLATION

MEASURING INPLATION
The consumer price inflation index of the MoSPI measures the price rise in a basket of goods and services. Each good or service in the basket is given a specific weight in the construction of the index.

A consumer expenditure survey is conducted every five years to analyse consumer spending on various goods and services and to assign weights to those in the index.

and to assign weights to those in the index.

Food & beverages are given a staggering 45.9 per cent weight in the index. No wonder then that when vegetables, cereals, milk and other consumption products rise, inflation rockets upwards. Housing has a 10.1 per cent weight, while education, transport and health carry 4.5 per cent, 8.6 per cent and 5.9 per cent weight, respectively.

The short point is that the composition of the basket of goods and services decides the overall inflation figure. Since our own household budget may comprise various items with completely different weights, the inflation figure may be higher or lower based on the composition.

Financial planners suggest 6.7 per cent as that has been the average figure over the past deade or so. The consumer price inflation has increased at an amula rate of around 6.0.2 per cent in the last 10 years, according to data from Trading Economics.

But many aren't systematic enough to record all their expenses.

And even so, there are other key goals such as college education fees, healthcare, marriage and retirement whose costs growat different rates.

Consulting firm Aon publishes a medical inflation. The report for 2023 gives a price rise figure of 12 per cent. It was 13 per cent in 2022.

A report from Banklazaar states that education costs have rised at 11-12 per cent each year over the past decade.

And marriage is a different game alvegether as you will have to deal with gold price rise, food inflation and rising costs of apparel, hall rentals and the like.

Overall, here are some safe assumptions you can make to save adequately for various gools.

For medical and hospitalisa-tion expenses, it is safe to as-sume double-digit inflation for the foreseeable future. You must calculate and ensure an adequate sum assured based on this calculation and bolster it with a super top-up cover when needed. More so, if your family members have a history of chronic or other serious recalibrate the inflation figure and planyour saving process accordingly.

For marriage, too, we can safely assume 10 per cent or higher inflation, given that it in volves multiple sub-segments.

Finally, while calculating the costs for retrement, you can consider the long-term CPI average or take the safer option that planners generally give of 6-7 per cent. Higher the inflation assumed, better the margin of safety.

tion assumed, better the margin of safety.

All these are broader ways of going about planning and would broadly serve investors in doing all the planning themselves. For others, it would be better to sit with their investment advisor to plan for goals even more systematically.

The higher rate was set to be unleashed from July 1, 2023, but the timeline was pushed to October 1, 2023, for a smooth ing a smooth 1, 4023, for a smooth implementation. The surge in the rate will have ramifications on a multitude of outward remissions, which could otherwise be freely remitted by an individual up to an aggregate of $250,000 per financial year. Here's more on what you should keep in mind under the new regime beginning today.

PRACTICAL ASPECTS

Remittances under LRS other than for educational or medical purpose in excess of £7 lakh would now be subject to TCS at the rate of 20 per to TCS at the rate of 20 per cent.

While the ability to offset TCS credits against tax liability to to Carlos against tax liability or to claim refund of the same (in case of TCS credit in excess of tax liability) in the Income Tax returns brings down any unnecessary financial strain, this may still result in blockage of working capital for 12-18 months depending on timing of investment and processing of ITR and, consequently, rax refunds. Secondly, you should remember to obtain certificate of TCS in Porm 270 from the TCS. Collector as proof of of TCS in Form 27D from the TCS. Collector as proof of payment of TCS in order to claim the credit in ITR and such TCS credit should re-flect in Annual Tux Statement (Form 26AS), as well. TCS mechanism is an ena-bler for revenue authorities to truck foreign assets acquired by individual taxpuy ers. Hence, it becomes crucial for taxpayers to make appro-priate disclosures of foreign assets in "Schedule FA" of ITR. Non-reporting could enassets in Stitutus eva to TIR. Non-reporting coulden-nal unwelcome penal con-sequences, Recently, Munthai Income Tax Appellate Tibunal, in a ground-break-ing valing, determined that penalty under the Back-lor non-disclosure of foreign assets in "Schechile-FA" of TIR, regardless of the fact that income derived from such foreign assets is offered to tax or such foreign assets are disclosed in books. With respect to overseas tour packages, payments in excess of ₹7 lath would now be subject to TCS at the rate excess of £7 lakh would now be subject to TCS at the rate of 20 per cent, while TCS for payment up to £7 lakh contin-ues to be applicable at the rate of 5 per cent. The Central Board of Direct Taxes has cla-rified that buying interna-tional travel tickets or host accommodation or incurring similar expense on a standalone basis would not qualify as an "overseas tour package". A package must include at least two of three expenses, i.e. travel ticket, accommodation and expenditure of similar nature, bundle together to meet the definition.

together to meet up to the front on.

Non-resident tour operations may arguably seek to not undertake TCS compliance with a shelter that TCS provisions cannot have extra-reritorial jurisdiction. This discrepancy could potentially queer the playing field for resident of the province of the playing field for resident or the playing field fi ident tour operators, as cus-tomers that trally get an arbit-rage if TCS is not applied by non-resident tour operators. While TCS on payments towards IAS would be applic-able only on payments made by individuals, TCS on over-seas tour packages could be applicable on payments made by companies for corporate tour packages booked for employees.

TAX QUERY.

I bought GOI strips (0 per cent coupon bonds) IN001223C030 in. July '22. They mature in 2023. I understand that zero-coupon bonds are taxed as capital gains. Could you clarify this and whether the duration for considering it as LTCG is 1 year or 3 years?

If a zero-coupon bond is held for 12 months or more, it is treated as a long-term capital asset. Proceeds on maturity less cost of acquiring the bonds will then be taxed as long-term capital gain. As per Section 112A of the Income Tax Act, 1961, the gain is taxable at the rate of 10 per cent
