OVER 350,000 STUDENTS TO BENEFIT EACH YEAR

World Bank approves $255.5-M loan for better tech education

Project to support government-run tech institutes

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, June 24

THE WORLD BANK has approved a $255.5 million loan for improving the quality of technical education in government-run institutions in India.

Over the next five years, the project will support around 275 government-run technical institutions in selected states across the country, benefitting more than 350,000 students each year.

The Multidisciplinary Education and Research Improvement Project will support improving student skills and employability by focusing on better research, entrepreneurship, and innovation; and improve governance in technical institutions.

As part of the project, students will get access to upgraded curricula including emerging technologies in communication and climate resilience. They will also benefit from better internship and placement services, including opportunities to network with professional associations, World Bank said.

"World Bank's Board of Executive Directors have approved a $255.5 million loan to help India improve the quality of its technical education and provide more career opportunities to students," the US-based multilateral institution said in a statement. Tertiary education in India has been growing steadily from 29 million enrolled students in 2011-12 to 39 million enrolled students across 40,000 institutions in 2019-20.

While India's tertiary education sector is among the largest in the world, recent studies note increased gaps in both technical and non-technical skills such as reasoning, interpersonal communication, and conflict resolution, the World Bank said.

"India has one of the largest and fastest-growing tertiary education systems in the world. The project will support Government of India's National Education Policy 2020, which calls for modernizing this critical sector to better prepare students for emerging jobs and business opportunities," said Auguste Tano Kouame, the World Bank's Country Director for India. "Improving female participation in technical education will receive special attention."

The project will support participating institutions to organise outreach programmes providing prospective female students, parents, and guardians with more and better information on technical education programme options, build sensitivity to gender issues, and address misconceptions about women's capabilities in the science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) fields.

Omicron-specific booster based on mRNA launched

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, Jun 24

UNION MINISTER JITENDRA Singh on Saturday launched an Omicron-specific mRNA-based booster vaccine for Covid. GEMCOVAC-OM is India's first mRNA vaccine developed using the indigenous platform technology by Genovva, with funding support from Department of Biotechnology (DBT) and Biotechnology Industry Research Assistance Council (BIRAC), a statement said.

A few days ago, this vaccine got the nod from the office of the Drug Control General of India (DCGI) for Emergency Use Authorisation (EUA).

GEMCOVAC-OM is the fifth vaccine developed with support from Mission Covid Suraksha implemented by DBT and BIRAC under Atmanirbhar Bharat 3.0 package of the government for accelerated development of Covid-19 vaccines. Singh said this 'future-ready' technology platform can be used to make other vaccines in a relatively shorter time.

GEMCOVAC-OM is a thermostable vaccine and does not require ultra-cold chain infrastructure used for other approved mRNA-based vaccines. "This innovation makes it easy for last mile deployment in our country. The existing supply chain infra-

The vaccine is delivered intra-dermally using a needle-free injection device system and in study participants it generated significantly higher immune responses, the statement said. The clinical outcome demonstrates the need for variant-specific vaccines for desired immune response, it said.
