'Third-party reporting will boost compliance'

Gireesh Chandra Prasad
gireesh.p@livemint.com
NEW DELHI

The budget has sought to iron out tax policy and offered ease of compliance while trying to ensure certainty in tax rates. One major factor that will guide tax administration in the future would be information gathering from third parties about transactions that will help the income tax department nudge taxpayers to comply, explains Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) chairman Pramod Chandra Mody in a post-budget interview. Edited excerpts:

> Tax certainty has been one of the key goals of this year's budget. The time period for reopening of assessment has also been lowered.
> PRAMOD C. MODY
> Chairman, Central Board of Direct Taxes

INTERVIEW

While personal income tax receipts projected for FY22 have crossed pre-pandemic levels, corporate tax receipts estimated for FY22 are lower than pre-pandemic levels. Why is it so and how will you address this?

The corporate tax rate was slashed substantially. So, as far as personal income tax is concerned, making information available to the taxpayer upfront in form 26 AS (tax credit statement) coupled with simplification of processes and better taxpayer services being made available should usher in that change in personal income tax for individuals to comply with their tax obligations. Broadly this is what is behind the trend.

What are the direct tax goals in this budget?

Tax certainty has been one of the key goals of this year's budget. The time period available for reopening of assessment has been lowered and no new taxes have been added. All these should give that sense of certainty to taxpayers. The ease of compliance is another goal. This helps taxpayers to file his submissions on time. Getting tax matters settled in a transparent manner from the comfort of one's house and without having to visit the income tax office is a great thing to cheer. We are trying to give the best possible service to the taxpayer that is feasible and possible. The taxpayer should feel motivated to comply with the laws voluntary.

But has widening the tax base taken a back seat?

The number of tax returns filed has more than doubled from what was the case in 2014. (Return filers rose from 3.3 crore in 2014 to 6.48 crore in 2020). Now, with more of third-party reporting of details, say bank interest, share market transactions etc, and that information being made available to taxpayers in the tax portal, coupled with the ease with which he can discharge his filing and post-filing process, should all be a great motivator for voluntary compliance. This will also help us in pre-filling the return.

A liberal corporate tax rate without tax incentives was offered in 2019 and it was followed up with a similar scheme for individuals. What has been the response?

The tax filing season is yet to get over. It is difficult to say what has been the response at this juncture. But at the same time, the expectation is that people will opt for the new regime because it simplifies the whole structure apart from the lower rates which in themselves are encouraging for both companies as well as individuals. We will have a clearer picture when the first filing season gets over.

The new dispute resolution scheme proposed for taxpayers is available in cases where the disputed income is up to ₹10 lakh. Isn't that a low threshold as the tax liability in such cases would be around ₹3.3 lakh?

If you see the nature of disputes, they were largely falling in the lower end of the tax bracket (small taxpayers). To give a better facility of alternative dispute resolution, the scheme was brought in. Since a majority of the disputes is in this bracket, we should first give them this opportunity and see the experience. That is the time when we can take a (fresh) call on the threshold.

Over the years, the tax policy was to do away with tax breaks that complicated law and lead to litigation. But now these are coming back, affordable housing, for example. Is this not a U-turn?

No. The tax relief given to affordable housing has been extended by another year because of the exceptional circumstances we are in. People could not start their project or the individual taxpayers could not make the best use of the package given to them in these times. It is only to support them that this relief has been extended by another year. It does not go against the basic grain of doing away with tax exemptions. A specific end date has been given to incentives.

A REASSURING BUDGET FOCUSED ON GROWTH, INVESTMENT AND JOBS

EXPERT VIEW

Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw Respond to this column at feedback@livemint.com

Budget 2021 has given a massive push to healthcare and infrastructure with a focus on growth, investment and jobs. The massive investments envisaged by the finance minister to quickly generate large-scale employment to bring back millions of jobs lost due to the pandemic necessitate mega funding. A substantial ~16% share of this year's budget has been set aside for the creation of long-term assets or capital expenditure versus ~13.6% last year.

To fund this massive infrastructure push, the budget has announced ambitious plans to privatize central public sector enterprises, monetize public sector assets, including government land banks, ease foreign direct investment (FDI) limits in sectors like insurance and float zero-coupon bonds for infrastructure debt funds.

While the steps taken in the budget are in the right direction, the government needs to partner with the private sector to spur a rapid economic recovery. It should enable India's large private industry to grow at scale and be globally dominant by relaxing regulations and providing fiscal incentives to attract long-term investors.

The healthcare sector is one area where the private sector can create the kind of scale that is needed to address India's challenges.

The private sector can provide a mix of goods and services, including direct provision of health services, vaccines, medicines and medical products, financial products, training for the health workforce, information technology, infrastructure and support services. It can thus complement the government's welcome move to develop India's primary, secondary and tertiary healthcare infrastructure through a new scheme with an outlay of more than ₹64,000 crore to be spent over six years.

The allocation of over ₹35,000 crore towards covid-19 vaccination is promising, given the government's strong focus on immunization. We do not have a shortage of vaccines in India, unlike many other countries globally, and the need of the hour is to deploy these vaccines at scale and speed. We have seen how the private sector helped scale up covid-19 testing in the country.

Covid-19 vaccination can be similarly ramped up if the government involves the private sector in the immunization drive, to ensure the vaccines reach at least half the country's 1.3-billion population in the shortest period of time.

I think ₹35,000 crore is a serious budgetary allocation that needs to be spent wisely beyond vaccine procurement. We need to utilize these funds well, including creating cold chain infrastructure and digital platforms for surveillance and pandemic preparedness. Post-2021, we need to allocate such funding to immunize our population for various viral diseases as well as non-communicable diseases like cancer, diabetes, cardiac disease and respiratory illness. Increasing healthcare spend in procuring covid-19 vaccines this fiscal is directionally vital, and I welcome this massive support for a preventive healthcare strategy.

Further, this budget has gone beyond direct healthcare and addressed well-being through a focus on sanitation, nutrition and pollution control. The government has done very well in terms of increasing the investment in health and well-being by 137% over last fiscal to ₹2.24 trillion. I hope this is not a one-time spike but part of a trend that will take public spending on healthcare to the targeted 2.5% of GDP by 2024.

We need to remember that India has one of the highest levels of out-of-pocket expenditure on healthcare in the world, which contributes directly to the high incidence of catastrophic expenditures and poverty. As pointed out in the Economic Survey, an increase in public health expenditure from the current levels of 1% to 2.5-3% of GDP can reduce out-of-pocket expenditure from the current level of 65% to 35%.

> The govt needs to partner with the private sector to spur a rapid economic recovery

The finance minister had announced the National Research Foundation (NRF) in July 2019 and in her budget speech said its outlay will be ₹50,000 crore over five years. While this is a very welcome development and will strengthen the research and innovation ecosystem in the country, I am a bit disappointed that the private sector did not receive any kind of research and development (R&D)-related incentives. I believe the private sector has a very important role to play in research and innovation in India.

A much stronger focus on industry-academia partnerships is an absolute must for a robust research and innovation ecosystem in India.

The government's decision to raise the allocation for education in this year's budget is also commendable.

The moot question now is how quickly can we raise finance and fund these ambitious projects. Timing is extremely critical to bring back the jobs lost to the pandemic. The government must speed up the process of monetization of assets so that it can invest in all the sectors as planned. Taken together, these measures will be able to spur a V-shaped growth recovery of the Indian economy after the covid-19 hit. Overall, this was a reassuring budget with no negative surprises that has buoyed all-round sentiment.
