Vietnam, India in the China Plus-One game

The smaller nation is scoring high in attracting global corporations and their suppliers

SURAJEET DAS GUPTA
New Delhi, 11 October

In 2020, Chinese auto and electronics major BYD, Apple's largest contract manufacturer of iPads, was looking to shift some of its capacity from China to India. But the move was shelved after geopolitical tensions erupted between the two countries and stiff foreign direct investment (FDI) rules were introduced for Chinese companies.

Now, two years on, BYD has just started rolling out iPads from Vietnam. It has invested $268 million to set up a new factory with a capacity to churn out 4.33 million tablets a year.

Vietnam's gain is India's loss. The two Asian countries have been aggressively wooing global companies and their suppliers to shift from China. Growing US-China geopolitical tensions and supply chain disruptions due to sudden closures of factories to combat Covid-19 have impelled many tech players to explore other investment destinations.

India has grabbed one jewel in the crown — Apple Inc. Its vendor Foxconn recently started assembling the latest iPhone 14 within a few days of its global launch. And if everything goes according to script under the production-linked incentive (PLI) scheme, the country would account for 12 per cent of the global production value of iPhones, which could go up to 20 per cent by FY26.

The PLI scheme, meant primarily to reduce the cost disadvantage between India and Vietnam for making mobiles, offers an incentive of 4-6 per cent on the production value for five years. But sources in the know clarify that Apple Inc. is not shifting manufacture of its AirPods to India (Apple did not respond to questions about its aborted trust with BYD).

All in all, though, Vietnam is way ahead in the game. Apart from grabbing iPads, Google, according to a report by the New York Times, is also shifting the assembly of its latest Pixel 7 mobile phones to Vietnam from China. Reports had said India was also in the reckoning. Hanoi has also bagged Chinese mobile player Xiaomi, which is contract-manufacturing phones with Chinese Digi in Vietnam for exports to Thailand and Malaysia. Microsoft is manufacturing Xbox consoles there. In the non-electronics space, toy maker Lego, which was scouting for a factory to cater to growing Asian demand (it has a factory in China), opted for Vietnam, recently where it has committed an investment of $1 billion.

Vietnam's crowning glory has been Samsung. Since 2008, the Korean chaebol has invested a staggering $19 billion in the country shifting mobile capacity from China. It recently announced an additional $3.3 billion for semiconductors. As much as 50 per cent of its phones are made in Vietnam and 2021 annual exports were $65.5 billion (three times what Apple promised to manufacture in India in FY26).

The new battleground for the two countries is in PCs, laptops and tablets as global brands look to hedge against their over-dependence on China — 75 per cent of all laptops are made in that country. Vietnam's share in this space might be just 2 per cent (contract-manufacturing for Dell, Amazon and Google, say reports) but it is furiously licensing contract manufacturers to create capacity and become a hub for the world here, too.

To this end, Hanoi has signed an agreement with Foxconn, recently to invest $300 million to assemble laptops and tablets and has given permission to Wistron peripherals. Reports by Nikkei say Microsoft might start producing its Surface line including notebooks and desktops computers.

India's answer to who laptop (the bulk of which are imported from China), PC and tablet makers has been through a PLI scheme for IT products, which has failed to take off. Only around four of the 14 eligi-

WHAT DOES VIETNAM OFFER TO THOSE WANTING TO SHIFT FROM CHINA

- Supportive government reflected in the way it helped Samsung since 2008 to bring huge investments in the country
- No restriction on Chinese component players
- Low duty on input costs via multiple free trade agreements with countries across the world
- Labour law flexibility
- A study by Natixis (corporate and investment bank) says Vietnam ranked number one as alternative to China among seven Asian emerging nations

WHAT DOES INDIA OFFER

- Cheap skilled labour in abundance
- A large domestic market
- PLI scheme to incentivise manufacturers to export and play in the Indian market
- An increasingly responsive government, but companies still face serious problems on tax law interpretations and sudden huge claims on companies addition is possible only if their Chinese vendors are allowed in the government wants value addition upped from 15-20 per cent to 35 per cent in the next four years). Hanoi imposes no such restrictions; locational proximity enhances its attractiveness.

Vietnam has two other key advantages — far lower input tariffs than India, and the ability to leverage its plethora of free trade agreements (FTAs) that allow zero duty entry for exports.

A preliminary study being undertaken by Knight Frank, Ahmedabad continues to remain the most-affordable housing market among the top eight cities. It has an affordability index of 22 per cent followed by Pune at 26 per cent and Chennai at 27 per cent.

The other problem, say companies, is that unlike Vietnam there is constant fear of differing interpretations and wrong classifications, with the revenue department suddenly raising demands or even accusing global players of round tripping. "There is no pre-consultation and advance authorisation like in Vietnam. Once demands have been made, the only way out is litigation," said a senior executive of a global electronics company.

Critically, Vietnam has also leveraged its FTAs with over 56 economies that have helped suppress tariff barriers and make it a potential supply chain strategic hub. For instance, its recent FTA with the European Union has lifted tariffs on 85 per cent of Vietnamese goods. India, meanwhile, has abstained from the most consequential FTAs — the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership.

Of course, India has the advantage of an abundance of skilled labour available at a still lower wages. Vietnam's wage for workers is half of that of China, where rising wages have become a barrier to investment. But India's worker wages are still a third of that of China, says an executive of a contract manufacturing company. That apart, Vietnam's much smaller population has a limited number of skilled workers.

But most global players say that this one advantage is not enough. Vietnam has much more flexible labour laws that partly neutralise the advantage. Clearly, India will need much more than cheap labour to leverage global corporations' China Plus-One strategy.

'Rising median loan rates lead to fall in affordability'

PRATIHA YADAV
New Delhi, 11 October

Balraj said.

The real estate market has seen a decline in affordability due to the recent rise in median loan rates as a result of the 50 basis points (bps) hike in repo rates by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI).

A cumulative increase of 0.95 per cent in median home loan rate has impacted the purchase affordability and purchase decisions of homebuyers, according to the Affordability Index by Knight Frank.

The Affordability Index tracks the EMI (equated-monthly instalment) to income ratio for an average household.

The index highlighted that the cumulative rate hikes decreased home purchase affordability by 2 per cent across markets and increased EMI load by 74 per cent.

"Home affordability, due to the rise in median loan rates, has worsened in 2022. On September 30, the RBI increased the repo rate by 50 bps, taking the cumulative hike to 190 bps in 2022," said Shishir Balraj, chairman and managing director, Knight Frank India.

With the need for homeownership still being strong, homebuyers will largely make compromises and consider lower-priced housing units rather than deferring their purchases as expectations of further price increases will discourage demand.

According to a nine-month assessment by Knight Frank, Ahmedabad continues to remain the most-affordable housing market among the top eight cities. It has an affordability index of 22 per cent followed by Pune at 26 per cent and Chennai at 27 per cent.

The top eight cities include Mumbai, Hyderabad, National Capital Region (NCR), Bengaluru, Kolkata, Chennai, Pune, and Ahmedabad.

On city-wise data, the report said Mumbai remains the most expensive residential market in the country. It is the only city whose affordability index is improving at the rate of 4 per cent — from 53 per cent in the third quarter of this year. Following Mumbai, Hyderabad remains the second-most expensive residential market. The city's home purchase affordability index improved from 53 per cent in 2010 to 33 per cent in 2019.

With the advent of the pandemic in early 2020, the affordability index further improved and currently stands at 31 per cent.

NCR ranks third in terms of the most-expensive residential market in the country during Q3 of 2022. The city's affordability index has been fluctuating year on year. From 48 per cent in 2010, the home purchase affordability index improved to 34 per cent in 2019. In Q3 of 2022, the affordability index of the city stands at 30 per cent.
