The state is currently home to four shipyards — Modest Infrastructure Ltd (Bhavnagar), Shoft Shipyard Ltd (Bharuch), L&T Ltd (Hazira) and Wadia Boat Builders (Navsari), Mehul Patel, the director of Bhavnagarbased Modest Infrastructure Ltd, said, "Gujarat has good infrastructures and capacities for shipbuilding, but the industry faced several challenges in the last decade. Our ship repair business is better now, and the repair facility is running at around 70% of its capacity.

breaking business in Gujarat

Alang: Touted as the world's largestship-breaking yard, Alang's ship-breaking industries are dying a slow death. While the state and the central governments are aggressively pushing for doubling the ship-breaking capacity at Alang-Sosiya, the arrival of ships has plunged to a decadal low. The data of the Ship Recycling Industries' Association of India (SRIAI) suggests that Alang handled 298 ships in the fiscal year 2013-14, which plunged to 187 in 2020-21. In the current fiscal, the cluster has handled and ships only. Dwindling demand and nonconducive policies of the govern-ment are making it difficult for ship recyclers to sustain. Explaining this, Haresh Parmar, secretary, SRIAI, said, "The Gujarat Maritime Board." "The Gujarat Maritime Board (GMB) is levying high charges from plots which do not get ships. At present, GMB levies Rs 700 per square metre — double the amount levied some three years ago. Higher fixed costs have been making the business unsustainable the business unsustainable, especially when the number of ships arriving is dwindling. The shipbreaking sector, in fact, requires an urgent intervention from the government. "A policy-push with the proposal to set up a vehicle scrapyard in Bhavnagar has given a new lease of life to the slowing business of ship-breaking in Gujarat. The state government has recently given an in-principle approval to set up the vehicle scrapyard at Madhiya GIDC, on the outskirts of Bhavnagar. "About six entities have shown interest in setting up vehicle-recycling units in Bhavnagar is set in Bhavnagar is set in Bhavnagar is set in Shavnagar are especially when the number of policy," said a source.

"Industries in Bhavnagar are well-equipped to deal with steel, plastic and rubber by-products and even hazardous wastedisposal. For instance, the major by-product of the major by-product of whicle scrapping is steel and plastic. We have a steel-scrapping facility at Sihor where we are equipped to deal with the hazardous waste generated. A ready infrastructure will accelerate growth," said Tejas Shah, who has shown an expression of interest.

Experts say that the business will readily pick up as at least 20 lakh heavy commercial vehiclesin Gujarat with over 15 years of age will undergo a mandatory automated fitness test on April 1 and upon failing, will be scrapped. The Saurashtra Chamber of Commerce and Industry (SCCI) in a representation to the government demanded a special cluster in the newly government demanded a special cluster in the newly developing GIC with bigger plots. Industry players opined that the policy push is extremely critical to the success of the industry as concern. "Initial businesses will be available with up to 20 lakh vehicles in the state already over 15 years old. However, a proper policy must be in place to make the business wiable. Logistics costs will be high. At the same time, extended producers' responsibility (EPR) must be put in place for automobile
