PNC Resumes Filming of Four More Shots Please!

Pritish Nandy Communications announces it has resumed filming Four More Shots Please! this week, under strict safety protocols, and all regulations as announced by the government. Filming of the third season of the international Emmy nominated show Four More Shots Please! was abruptly interrupted by the announcement of the first lockdown in March 2020. Since then, filming has remained suspended though PNC made a critically acclaimed short film Rat-a-Tat for the Amazon anthology Unpaused during the pandemic. With only two actors and three crew members on the set.

After the shoot of Four More Shots Please! is over, PNC will move on almost immediately to commence production on an yet unannounced new show that the Company has been working on during the lockdown. Six topnotch movie directors are attached to the new show that PNC is producing.
