expertise to ensure efficient project execution. With over two decades of experience in GIS and infrastructure solutions, CS Tech AI is poised to deliver a sustainable and transformative solution for the region's water challenges.

Kaushik Khona, Managing Director India Operations of CS Tech AI (Ceinsys Tech Limited), expressed his huge enthusiasm, stating:

“This project is a testament to our dedication to driving innovation and creating impactful infrastructure solutions. Being the first river-linking project in Maharashtra, the Survey and design work for the Wainganga-Nal Ganga River-Linking Project aligns perfectly with our vision of enhancing possibilities through technology. We are committed to delivering this critical project with the highest standards of quality, efficiency, and sustainability, ensuring it benefits millions of lives in Maharashtra.

For the fulfilment of this project we have also partnered with Nippon Koei India Private limited, the Indian venture of the Japanese Conglomerate whose expertise in some of the deliverables will add the value to the overall delivery by CS Tech AI.”

This River linking project is the most ambitious project and very valuable for the even development of all regions of Maharashtra. The River linking project, once completed will be a life line for several districts of Maharashtra covering majority of Vidarbha providing consistent irrigation facilities enhancing the agricultural and daily water needs of the region.
