Consolidated operating margin to be around 18-19% in FY23: Marico

FE BUREAU Chennai, July 13

MARICO EXPECTS ITS consolidated operating margin to be around 18-19% in FY23 on the back of improvement in demand and margin trends seen in the second half of the current financial year.

The FMCG major had posted consolidated margin of 17.7% in FY22, according to Bloomberg. The marginal improvement in margin that the company is expecting is due to softening in prices of crop, which constitute about 40% of the raw material basket and is expected to remain benign.

Moreover, it also expects more cool-off in the prices of crude and edible oil. As for the demand front, Marico sees to be uncertain in the domestic business in the near term. Demand in the FMCG industry has been tepid due to inflationary pressures hitting consumer sentiment. Marico in its recent quarterly update said that its volume in April, June declined in the mid-single digits.
