Study shows one in 2 Indians unfit, inactive, fails WHO guidelines

Amija Iyengar/Timesgroup.com

New Delhi: Nearly 50% of Indian adults are unfit and fail to adhere to World Health Organisation (WHO) recommendations for adequate physical activity, according to a study in medical journal The Lancet Global Health on Tuesday.

The research, conducted across 187 nations and territories from 2000 to 2022, highlighted a significant gender disparity, with 52.4% of women and 38.4% of men found physically inactive in 2022. The most concerning aspect of the findings was the dramatic increase in the prevalence of insufficient physical activity among Indian adults, which surged from 22.1% in 2000 to 45.4% in 2022.

The researchers, led by Dr. Hitesh Bhandari, consultant, orthopaedics, Indian Spinal Injuries Centre, says, "Sedentary lifestyles and consumption of junk food are key contributors to diseases. These include osteoporosis, where a lack of weight-bearing exercise can lead to weaker bones, and osteoarthritis, exacerbated by obesity caused by poor diet and inactive chronic low back pain is another common issue, resulting from poor posture and weak core muscles due to inactivity. Adults aged 45-65 are most affected in terms of orthopaedic health. This group often has desk jobs and sedentary habits, leading to musculoskeletal problems."

Physical inactivity in Indian rose from 22.4% in 2000 to 45.4% in 2022

US seeks regular briefs on Pannun case: Official

'India Looking At Institutional Reforms'

Times News Network

New Delhi: The United States has been consistently asking New Delhi for updates on its investigation into the alleged involvement of an Indian official in the murder-for-hire plot against Sikh separatist Gurbaj Singh Pannun, as it seeks accountability from India, Deputy Secretary of State Kurt Campbell said on Wednesday.

Deputy secretary of state Kurt Campbell is a virtual interlocutor that they (India) have been responsive to America's concerns

Campbell, who met foreign secretary Vinay Kwatra and deputy NSA Vikramjit Singh during his visit to India last week, further said "Indian colleagues" are looking carefully at what potential "institutional reforms" might be necessary in the wake of some of the allegations and reports in media. He was responding to a question on whether US would accept an "unconfirmed rogue agent theory" that has been reported in the media.

The remarks are significant as India has so far said nothing about the accusation of the probe. Campbell said India has been responsive to US concerns.

Asked if India's ties with Russia could come in the way of cooperation in sensitive technology sectors, Campbell said the US has expressed concern about it and the two sides remain clear what areas are affected by the continued military relationship between India and Russia. "I think we will take what steps we can to mitigate some of those engagements. And we have expressed some concerns, but at the same time, we have confidence and trust in India and we're working to enhance our partnership in technology and the future."

Ragged by seniors, Raj MBBS student's kidney damaged, undergoes dialysis

Times News Network

Jaipur: A first-year MBBS student of a govt medical college in Rajasthan's Dungargarh district had to undergo dialysis after seniors forced him to move more than 500 km in searching for a kidney donor, severely impacting his kidney function. An FIR has been filed against seven second-year students in the matter and they have been suspended by the college.

Although the brutal ragging incident took place on May 15, the college administration took action against the accused students on Tuesday after receiving a communication from the National Medical Commission (NMC). The victim had filed a complaint with NMC against the college.

The email by NMC was forwarded to college on June 22, which investigated the matter. Following SC guidelines and based on the recommendation of the anti-ragging committee, we filed an FIR against seven accused," college principal Dr. Balaramuvaranvu S told TOI.

Relief for cop accused of domestic violence, rape by former partner in Guj

Times News Network

Ahmedabad: Gujarat high court on Wednesday stayed police action against a sub-inspector accused by his former partner of rape and false promise of marriage and domestic violence. The court said the two charges are not maintainable together.

Sub-inspector Vinod Patel had moved the high court after his former partner, a 44-year-old widow, filed a 14-year-old criminal complaint against him in March. The woman claimed she was a divorcee and Patel had told her that he was also a divorcee. She said they started living together in 2010 and married at a temple according to Hindu customs. They lived together until 2022. He started ill-treating her when she demanded to see his divorce papers, she said in her complaint. She also accused him of domestic violence over Rs 20 lakh during the time they lived together.

Unveiling the Deadly Nexus: Tobacco and Cancer

Dr. B. K. Sivurati
Head of Department of Radiation Oncology

In the relentless battle against cancer, one adversary looms larger than most: tobacco. Decades of research have shown the intricate and devastating association between tobacco use and various forms of cancer. From lung cancer to pancreatic and beyond, the evidence linking tobacco consumption to cancer incidence and mortality is unequivocal.

"The Lung Cancer Epidemic:"
As the foremost of this deadly new lung cancer, which is one of the most prevalent and lethal forms of cancer worldwide. Main causative agent is tobacco smoke which contains over 7000 chemicals, including at least 70 known carcinogens. The inhalation of these toxic fumes wreaks havoc on the delicate lung tissue, leading to cellular mutations and the unchecked proliferation of cells.

According to the World Health Organization (WHO), tobacco use is responsible for approximately 50% of all lung cancer cases. Furthermore, research published in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute estimates that smokers are 2 to 30 times more likely to develop lung cancer compared to non-smokers.

"Beyond the Lungs:"
While lung cancer garners much of the attention in discussions about tobacco-related malignancies, the harmful effects of tobacco extend far beyond the respiratory system. Studies have implicated tobacco use in the development of cancers affecting the mouth, throat, esophagus, pancreas, bladder, kidney, cervix, and more.

For instance, a meta-analysis published in the Journal of the American Medical Association found that smoking is associated with a two-fold increase in the risk of pancreatic cancer. Similarly, the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) has classified tobacco smoke as a known cause of bladder cancer.

"The Role of Secondhand Smoke:"
The peril of tobacco extends beyond the smoker themselves, enveloping innocent bystanders in its toxic embrace. Secondhand smoke, which contains many of the same carcinogens as direct smoke, poses a significant risk to non-smokers. The American Cancer Society reports that exposure to secondhand smoke increases the risk of lung cancer by 20-30% in non-smoking adults and is a known cause of sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS) in infants.

Conclusion:
As we confront the scourge of cancer, it is imperative to acknowledge and address the deadly nexus between tobacco and malignancy. Public health initiatives aimed at tobacco control, including smoking cessation programs and tobacco taxation, are crucial steps in mitigating the devastating impact of tobacco-related cancers.
