Modi's Twitter account hacked by 'John Wick'

The hackers distanced themselves from Paytm Mall 'hack'

SAI ISHWAR
Mumbai, 3 September

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's personal account on micro-blogging website Twitter was briefly hacked on Thursday. It was confirmed by the social media giant.

The account was hacked by a group called John Wick during the wee hours of Thursday. John Wick posted tweets urging followers to make donations to 'PM National Relief Fund for Covid-19' through cryptocurrency.

The account is linked to Modi's personal website narendramodi.in and has around 61.8 million followers since it was created in May 2011.

"According to our investigation this was not due to a compromise of Twitter's systems or service. There is no indication or evidence of any correlation between this account compromise and the incident that took place in July," said the social media giant later in the day. In one of the now-deleted tweets, John Wick denied responsibility for the Paytm Mall 'hack' that took place earlier this week. US-based cyber-intelligence firm Cyble said the e-commerce arm of the unicorn suffered a data breach and hackers had gained unrestricted access to the platform's entire database. The company, however, assured that all user and company data to be completely safe and secure and termed the allegations as "absolutely false". This attack on Modi's personal account comes weeks after the accounts of several popular personalities' personal accounts were hacked in July. The list included Elon Musk, Bill Gates, Joe Biden, Jeff Bezos, Barack Obama, Warren Buffett, and even Twitter's official handle. The tweets posted through these accounts offered to send $2,000 for every $1,000 sent to an anonymous Bitcoin address.

John Wick, a hacker group that claimed responsibility to the event, is a notorious hacking group or an actor who broke into multiple India companies, and collected ransoms from various organisations. The actor has other aliases such as "South Korea", "HCKINDIA". One of the tactics used by this group is "to act" as a grey-hat hacker and offer help to companies or victims to fix their bugs.

Facebook bans BJP politician Raja Singh for 'hate speech'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, 3 September

Under pressure for weeks over its handling of hate speech, Facebook on Thursday said it has banned BJP politician T Raja Singh from its platform and Instagram for violating its policy on content promoting violence and hate.

"We have banned Raja Singh from Facebook for violating our policy prohibiting those that promote or engage in violence and hate from having a presence on our platform," a Facebook spokesperson said in an emailed statement. The process for evaluating potential violators is extensive and it is what led to Facebook's decision to remove his account, according to the statement.

Facebook — which counts India among its largest markets

We are non-partisan and denounce hate: Facebook

Amid a raging controversy over Facebook's alleged political bias and interference in India's democratic process, the social media giant has told the Congress that it is non-partisan, denounces hate and bigotry in all forms and strives to ensure that its platforms remain a space where people can express themselves freely.

Responding to concerns raised by the opposition Congress, Facebook's Public Policy, Trust and Safety Director Neil Potts has said that it has taken the party's allegation of bias very seriously and will ensure that it remains non-partisan and is committed to maintaining the highest levels of integrity.

with over 300 million users — has been in the eye of a storm after a Wall Street Journal (WSJ) report alleged that Facebook's content policies favoured the ruling party in India. The report had alleged that Facebook had ignored posts containing hate speech by BJP MLA Raja Singh. Since then, the ruling BJP and Congress have been trading barbs over social media giant's alleged bias. In the wake of the WSJ report, a Parliamentary panel had summoned Facebook representatives to discuss the issue of alleged misuse of the social media platform on Wednesday.

On Tuesday, IT Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad had also written to Facebook chief Mark Zuckerberg accusing the social media platform's employees of supporting people from a political predisposition that lost successive elections, and "abusing" the Prime Minister and senior cabinet ministers.

According to sources, the decision to remove Singh from the platform was taken after an extensive process that the company follows in determining which individuals meet the criteria for policy violation and the work had been ongoing for some time to review Singh's actions.

Short-term borrowing...

RIL bonds maturing in August 2022 are trading at 4.66 per cent, while SBI's tier-II bonds issued less than a month ago are trading at a yield of 6.60 per cent.

However, there is a catch. Markets remain accessible only for firms rated 'AA' and above, and not necessarily for those rated below 'A'. For a vast majority, bank loans remain the only viable avenue.

Though banks are saddled with excess liquidity, the better-rated firms have moved to bond markets and lenders won't entertain lower-rated firms. RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das had warned banks at the Business Standard Banking Conclave last week that such extreme risk aversion was self-defeating.

The RBI also noted in its

FM to banks...

"During her interaction, the finance minister focused on lenders immediately putting in place a board-approved policy for resolution, identifying eligible borrowers and reaching out to them, and the quick implementation of a sustained resolution plan by lenders for the revival of every viable business," the finance ministry said in a statement.

Banks have to approve their own loan restructuring scheme, which was allowed by the RBI in August for all types of borrowers — corporate, MSME, and personal loan segments.

The meeting was held to "review their state of preparedness for implementation of the loans resolution framework for Covid-19 related stress".

"During the meeting, Sitharaman impressed upon the lenders that as and when the moratorium on loan repayments is lifted, borrowers must be given support and Covid-19 related distress must not impact the lenders' assessment of their creditworthiness," the ministry said.

Stressed industries that have defaulted for more than 30 days should also get an opportunity to restructure their loan accounts, according to suggestions by the bank executives. For non-MSME account holders, such restructuring can be sought till December 31, provided that the borrower should not be in default for more than 30 days as of March 1, 2020. Banks have to implement the resolution framework within 180 days of agreeing upon the restructuring proposal.

For MSMEs, the RBI has allowed all the three types of stressed assets to avail of restructuring, provided their total exposure is not more than ₹25 crore. But for others, including MSMEs with loan of more than ₹25 crore, the restructuring window will not be available if they fall under the SMA-1 (31-60 days of default) or SMA-2 (61-90 days default) categories.

The RBI requires banks to make a 10 per cent provisioning for restructured accounts. "For housing loan accounts, there was a suggestion that the provisioning requirements can be reduced," the bank chief executive cited above said.

Stressed borrowers...

The Bench said while the RBI's expertise in regulating the financial sector was not in question, not everything could be left to banks, and more solutions were needed to alleviate the hardships of small businesses and borrowers.

"The solution to the broader issues has to be delivered by the government and the RBI. Not everything can be left to the banks," the bench observed.

The Centre, on its part, said the RBI's August 6 notification was the "beginning of a solution", with aim being to provide relief for genuine defaulters due to the Covid-19 pandemic and the lockdown, and not willful defaulters. It pleaded with the Bench that any step taken should not harm banks and the financial system.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, who appeared for the Centre and the RBI, said the banking sector was the "backbone of the economy" and "every sector" and "every economy" was under stress due to the pandemic. Mehta said it was an accepted position worldwide that waiving interest was not a good option for the revival of economy. While referring to the grievance raised by the petitioners, the Bench said, "We are concerned with interest on the interest".

The RBI had on August 6 provided a framework for lenders to implement resolution plans in respect of eligible loans. The resolution plan might involve any action, including the regularisation of accounts by restructuring. Besides concessions in the rate of interest, the framework under the RBI's circulars of August 6 also permitted lenders to allow a moratorium of up to two years.
