Agri Crisis One of Country's Biggest Problems: Gadkari

Says industry must invest in rural sector to create jobs & diversify wealth generation

Our Bureau

New Delhi: Agriculture is one of the largest problems of the country, in terms of employment, and also one of the most neglected, says Union Minister for Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari. This, he said, was the reason why farmers were committing suicide.

Nitin Gadkari, Union Transport Minister

The reason behind this is surplus of crop, surplus of labour and surplus of government money in the hands of farmers, Gadkari said. He said the government has to consider the development of agriculture into a service and power, and industry should also invest in rural and agriculture to create jobs and diversify wealth generation.

Our import bill for crude oil is 7 lakh crore, and bringing this down is our biggest requirement from the perspective of the economy.

If the answer lies somewhere, then clearly, with a new vision we will have to look towards alternative fuel, Gadkari said. Our import bill for crude oil is 7 lakh crore, and bringing this down is our biggest requirement from the perspective of the economy.

New Delhi: Road transport and agriculture are two sectors that need to be taken care of together, said Union Minister for Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari. He said the government has to consider the development of agriculture into a service and power, and industry should also invest in rural and agriculture to create jobs and diversify wealth generation.
