Key growth drivers

- Top-line growth delivered as planned, powered by multiple engines

 - Price reduction lagged input cost decreases
 - Operating leverage

Outlook for Q2 and near future | Textile volumes and margins likely to improve

- Export and domestic markets continue to remain in a holding pattern
 - Consumer demand in US has not fallen off the cliff, but continues to remain muted
 - EU/UK seemed to have bottomed out, though clear green-shoots are few
 - Domestic demand also remains soft as Q2 progresses, all hopes on the festival season in early Q3

- Most input prices remain soft at this point, though difficult to predict stability
 - Cotton prices are 45% down compared to peak of summer 2022
 - Other commodities and freight rates also are in the lower end of cycle
 - Energy (electricity rates) have been on a rise, though gas prices have declined

- Small increase in EBIDTA margin expected on back of volume growth
 - Expect Denim and Garment volumes to further inch up, Wovens to remain steady
 - AMD to continue its growth momentum
 - Marginal increase in textile margins compared to Q1
 - Capex program of ₹600 crores over 2 years is on course
 - Short-term debt to increase in tandem with business growth

Thank You!
