Maruti rally may hit speed bump

Competitive pressure, lower share of utility vehicle segment, and margins remain key worries

RAM PRASAD SAHU
Mumbai, 10 September

Recovery in volumes over the past three months has put the stock of India's largest passenger vehicle (PV) maker Maruti Suzuki India (MSIL) on an upward trend.

The stock has recovered 79 per cent from its lows in April, but about a third of those gains have come in the past three months. At current levels it is just 7 per cent shy of its 52-week highs.

Led by the entry-level segment, the steadily increasing wholesale volumes have been the key trigger. In August, the company posted a 15-17 per cent growth over July and the year-ago period to 124,000 units. The robust growth was on account of demand for the mini segment (comprising Alto and S-Presso), preference for personal mobility, unlocking guidelines, and restocking of inventory at dealerships ahead of the festive season.

A lower base last year—S-Presso was launched in September—helped mini segment sales grow 95 per cent year-on-year (YoY). This, coupled with a 14 per cent gain in the compact segment, led to overall PV sales growth of 21 per cent in August. What has aided the firm is the fact that a third of its sales comes from the rural segment, which has been less affected by the Covid-19 pandemic.

Despite the recent volume uptick,

Priya Ranjan of Antique Stock Broking believes the optimism behind the rally is likely to fizzle out. He cites two reasons for this. The first is the rising share of utility vehicles in industry volumes with Maruti being a weak player, and increasing competition from Tata Motors and Renault in its core hatchback portfolio. Despite a 70 per cent share in the entry-level segment (customers are downgrading to lower priced cars), the company's retail market share has been at the 50 per cent mark over the past two months.

Moreover, the reasons for Maruti's stock gains over the last few years—such as market share increase, premiumisation, margin expansion, and valuation re-rating—might not play out going ahead.

last three years than historical levels. The other challenges include heavy dependence on Baleno, which accounts for 70 per cent of Nexa channel volumes, and lack of a diesel option in the mid-to-large sports utility vehicle segments and vehicles used for commercial applications. MSIL's utility vehicle market share is 25-30 per cent.

Given the lower volumes, operating profit margins have been under pressure. This is likely to continue because of higher share of the entry-level segment, discounts, and rising raw material prices. Antique estimates MSIL's operating profit (earnings before interest and taxes) margin to remain in 6-7 per cent range for the next three years.

Group health policy cover, uncovered

Purchase your own personal health cover to supplement the one provided by your employer

SANJAY KUMAR SINGH

Recently there was a news report about a Mumbai-based retiree who was part of his employer's group health cover. He was given to understand his parents were covered under the policy. He even paid an extra premium for this. His company reimbursed him once for his mother's treatment. When he asked for reimbursement for his father's treatment, it refused and asked him to refund the payout made towards his mother's treatment, saying parents were not covered. Thankfully, the District Consumer Disputes Redressal Forum came to the retiree's rescue and asked the employer to compensate him.

This story underlines the need for everyone who is part of a group health policy to obtain clarity from the human resource department on which family members are covered, especially after retirement.

"Only a few public-sector companies offer health cover to employees after retirement," says Mahavir Chopra, founder, Beshak.org.

Three scenarios are possible after retirement. "One, the health cover from the employer ceases. Two, it continues for the policy period. Three, your company may have created a group policy for retired employees which you may join," says S Prakash, managing director, Star Health and Allied Insurance. Whether your parents will be covered after retirement depends on the design of each company's policy, he adds.

Easy-to-get cover

The entry barrier is lower in a group policy. "When you buy a retail health policy, the insurer does a health assessment," says Subramanyam Brahmajyotula, head-underwriting and reinsurance, SBI General Insurance.

This is especially true for older people. This is waived in a group policy.

"The enrolment process is shorter and easier in a group policy," says Prasad Sikkar, managing director and chief executive officer, Manipal Cigna. Group policies do not have the two-

ENSURE THAT YOU INSURE

■ If you don't have a health cover of your own, you could be without protection if you turn into an entrepreneur or join a small company that doesn't offer health insurance

■ After 45 insurers, ask for a medical test

■ Buy a ₹2-3 lakh cover at the earliest and keep raising the sum insured

■ A retail policy offers lifelong protection. An insurer cannot deny renewal, so long as you pay the premium four-year waiting period for pre-existing diseases that retail policies have.

Retail policies are uniform. "Group policies are always customised, according to the needs of the group," says Praval Kalita, employee health and benefits leader, Mercer Marsh Benefits India.

No cover once you exit

Their biggest shortcoming is that a person doesn't have this cover once he ceases to be a member of the group. The sum insured, too, tends to be low.

The premium is re-negotiated every year. "If your organisation has budgetary constraints, the benefits of the policy could get curtailed," says Chopra.

Exercise portability option

At the time of exiting, they can port to an individual cover from the same insurer. "With porting you get continuity benefits. If you have already spent three years in the group policy, then you will only have to serve a waiting period of one year for coverage of pre-existing disease in the individual policy," says Kalita.

However, portability requests can be turned down. "Insurers may ask for medical tests and may deny portability in case of a major health declaration," warns Chopra. Hence, buying a base cover of your own is a must.

Gold ETFs see 5th month of inflows in August

MAYANK AVINASH PATVARDHAN
Mumbai, 10 September

Gold-backed exchange-traded funds (ETFs) recorded a fifth consecutive month of inflows in August. Mutual fund (MF) schemes mimicking returns of the yellow metal saw investor flows of ₹908 crore, taking their year-to-date tally to ₹5,360 crore.

Inflows in August came despite gold price coming off its all-time high, though it has risen 30 per cent in the first eight months of the year. The average gold price for the month was five per cent lower than the previous month. Interestingly, August was the first month of 2020 when gold investments yielded negative returns.

"Gold price came off its all-time high in August, after witnessing almost an uninterrupted rally this year. This probably provided a good entry point for investors to invest in yellow metal," said

Himanshu Srivastava, associate director—manager research, Morningstar India. There are about 11 gold ETF schemes offered by domestic MFs. The average net assets under management (AUM) for August for such schemes stood at ₹13,418 crore, data provided by industry body Association of Mutual Funds in India (AMFI) showed. The AUM has increased 2.4 times so far this year. At the end of December, the combined AUM of the 11 gold ETFs was ₹5,516 crore.

Gold's safe-haven investment tag has got a boost this year thanks to the economic uncertainty caused by the Covid-19 pandemic. "With all major economies starting at recession due to the spread of the pandemic, gold, with its safe-haven appeal, has emerged as one of the best-performing asset class and a preferred investment destination among investors. Moreover, as the surge in coronavirus cases have cast a doubt on the swift recovery hopes, investors continue to hedge their exposure to riskier assets by investing a portion in gold," said Srivastava.

Route Mobile IPO subscribed 4.1x

The ₹600-crore IPO of Route Mobile was subscribed more than 4x on Thursday, a day before its close. The 12.17-million share offering has garnered bids for 50.6 million shares, showed data by the exchanges. Most bids came from retail investors.

Route Mobile has already allotted shares worth ₹180 crore to anchor investors. The IPO comprises a fresh fundraising of ₹240 crore, with the remainder being a secondary share sale. Proceeds will be used to pare debt and make strategic acquisitions. The price band has been set at ₹345-350 per share. At the top end, the firm will be valued at ₹2,000 crore on a post-dilution basis. Further, the P/E multiple based on FY20 earnings is close to 30x—similar to other mid-sized IT firms.
