Pritish Nandy Communications announce that their Amazon Original show Four More Shots Please! has been nominated in the 2020 International Emmy Awards for Best Comedy.

The International Emmy Awards have been recognising excellence in television for 47 years. Nominations for the 2020 International Emmy Awards were announced yesterday by the International Academy of Television Arts & Sciences. There are 44 nominees across 11 categories and 20 countries this year.

“Congratulations to all the Nominees! We are especially proud to recognise and honour the world’s best storytellers, producers and performers,” said Bruce L. Paisner, President & CEO of the International Academy of Television Arts & Sciences.

Aparna Purohit, Head of India Originals, Amazon Prime Video said, “It’s an occasion of immense pride and honour to learn that our Indian Originals have been recognized with these prestigious International Emmy nominations. We constantly endeavour to create stories that are intensely local but can transcend all boundaries of geography, nationality and ethnicity, and these nominations only reaffirm that we are on the right path. We are thrilled with the nomination and are delighted to share this moment with Pritish Nandy Communications...”

Seasons 1 and 2 of Four More Shots Please! are on Amazon Prime Video across 200 countries. Season 3 was to commence production when the lockdown happened.
