PPA ISSUE

HC asks renewable units in Andhra to approach regulator

FE BUREAU
Hyderabad/Mumbai,
September 24

THE ANDHRA PRADESH High Court has struck down the controversial July 1 order by the state government asking a high-level committee to renegotiate the state's power purchase agreements (PPAs) with renewable power producers, terming it illegal. The court has, however, asked these electricity regulator APERC to decide on the matter within six weeks. Meanwhile, the courts will pay the reduced price of ₹2,432.14/unit to the renewable units.

While the Jagann Mohan Reddy government wanted to renegotiate the high PPA tariffs set during the previous regime downwards, the move had put 5,200 MW of installed wind and solar power capacity, with combined debt of ₹21,000 crore, at risk of default. Union power minister Kishoregoudar has been critical of the AP government's order which he feared could set precedent and besmirch the sanctity of PPAs.

A senior industry official told FE on conditions of anonymity said: "Our prayers that government has no jurisdiction over tariff renegotiation and discontinue our power plants for which terms were decided under competitive bidding was accepted by the court. The court quashed the government order to set up a renegotiation committee. Also, where they had disconnected our power plants, these were termed illegal. The court has directed the state government to re-connect the power plants."

However, the state government said in a statement: "The HC dismissed the argument of power companies that the government cannot review PPAs and justified the government's argument of going to the APERC for review of the PPAs."

Three Kerala temples seek GI tag for sweets

FE BUREAU
Thiruvananthapuram,
September 24

HOT ON THE heels of Palani temple's Panchamirtham prasadam offering, three temples in Kerala are in the race to climb the GI bandwagon. Anaswara the jaggery sweet of Sabarimala, Ayappa Temple, Punalpuzha (the milk porridge) of Ambalapuzha Krishna Temple and (Injappam) the deep-fried jaggery sweet of Kottarakkavala are the new aspirants for the GI tag.

While Tripunthi Venkateswara temple's laddu offering had walked away with global patent 10 years ago, it is barely a month since Palani Panchamirtham got listed in the GI website. The patent rights are given under Geographical Indications of Goods (Registration and Protection) Act.

"Like Palani temple's panchamirtham, the manufacturing of Sabarimala Temple's anaswara is almost fully automated. But then, unlike the case of Palani panchamirtham, the decision to seek patent for prasadam of three Kerala temples, was triggered by the agency to check the proliferation of counterfeiters. A Padmakumar, fiscal, Tiruvananthapuram District, TDB is a Kerala government-run outfit, that runs a string of 1,215 temples of assorted sizes."

What provoked the foray for GI was a social media video, that broke last month, exposing the sales of what they called "cheap" prasadam offering of Ambalapuzha temple in a private bakery in Pathanamthitta district. TDB had issued legal notice to the bakery-owner. Earlier, Sabarimala temple's prasadam had faced similar issues, when a Singapore-based firm tried to acquire patent for the name anaswara. "We expect to get the legal measures for GI protection moving in a week or so," says Padmakumar.
