THE LAST BITE OF APPLE

People line up in the rain to buy the Apple Daily newspaper's final issue in Hong Kong on Friday.

Across Hong Kong, people lined up early Thursday to buy the last The pressure on the paprint edition of the last remaining pro-democracy newspaper. By 8:30 am, Apple Daily's final edition of 1 million copies was sold out across most of the city's newsstands.

The newspaper said it would cease operations after police froze USD 2.3 million in assets, searched its office and arrested five top editors and executives last week, accusing them of foreign collusion to endanger national security another sign Beijing is tightening its grip on the semi-autonomous city. In recent years, the newspaper has become increasingly outspoken, criticizing Chinese and Hong Kong authorities for limiting the city's freedoms not found in mainland China and accusing them of reneging on a promise to protect them for 50 years after the 1997 handover from Britain.

per - and Hong Kong's civil liberties - increased after authorities responded to massive protests in 2019 with a sweeping national security law - used in the arrests of the newspaper employees - and revamped Hong Kong's election laws to keep opposition voices out of the legislature. "This is our last day and last edition, does this reflect the reality that Hong Kong has started to lose its press freedom and freedom of speech?" said an Apple Daily graphic designer, Dickson Ng.

"Why does it have to end up like this? Why is there not going to be the Apple (Daily) newspaper any more in Hong Kong?" To a big applause, associate publisher Chan Pui-man told staff who gathered around the newsroom Wednesday night: "You've done a great job, everyone!" Chan was one of the five arrested last week.

MANY FEARED DEAD AFTER MIAMI COLLAP

Rescuers pull dozens of survivors from the tower and continue to look for more

AGENCIES / Surfside (US)

A wing of a 12-story beachfront condo building collapsed with a roar in a town outside Miami early Thursday, killing at least one person and trapping residents in rubble and twisted metal.

Rescuers pulled dozens of survivors from the tower during the morning and continued to look for more.

Surfside Mayor Charles Burkett warned that the death toll was likely to rise, saying the building manager told him the tower was quite full at the time of the collapse around 1:30 a.m., but the exact number of people present was unclear. "The building is literally pancaked," Burkett said.

"That is hearthreaking because it doesn't mean, to me, that we are going to be as successful as we wanted to be in finding people alive." Authorities did not say what may have caused the collapse. Work was being done on the building's roof, but Burkett said he did not see how that could have been the cause.

About half of the building's roughly 130 units were affected, Miami-Dade County Mayor Daniella Levine Cava told a news conference Rescuers pulled at least 35 people from the wreckage by mid-morning, and heavy equipment was brought in to help stabilize the structure to give them more access, Raide Jadallah of Miami-Dade Fire and Rescue said.

Sally Heyman, of the Mia-mi-Dade Board of County Commissioners, said that 51 people who were thought to be in the building at the time of the collapse were unaccounted for by mid-morning - but there was a possibility that some weren't at home.

The tower has a mix of seasonal and vear-round resi dents, and while the building keeps a log of guests staying, it does not keep track of when owners are in residence, Burkett said.

"The number of unmarked graves will be the most significantly substantial to date in Canada," the statement from the Cowessess First Nation and the Federation of Sovereign Indigenous First Nations (FSIN), which represents Saskatchewan's First Nations, said.

Last month, the remains of 215 children, some as young as three years old, were found buried on the site of what was once Canada's largest Indigenous residential school near Kamloops, British Columbia

The new find was made at the Marieval Indian Residential School, which operated from 1899 to 1997 where Cowessess is now located. about 140km (87 miles) east of Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan.

After the discovery of the remains in British Columbia, excavations were undertaken near several former schools for Indigenous children across Canada, with the assistance of gov ernment authorities

The Marieval residential school in eastern Saskatchewan hosted Indigenous children between 1899 and 1997 before being demolished and replaced by a day school.

US allows some H-1B visa seekers to re-submit their applications

AGENCIES / Washington

Some foreign guest workers in the US will be able to resubmit their applications for the H1-B visa, the most sought-after non-immigrant visa among Indian IT professionals, if their petition was solely rejected because it was based on the initial registration period, according to a federal agency.

According to the US Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS), such resubmission of applications is for those whose applications have been rejected or administratively closed solely because the requested start date was after October 1, 2020. The H-1B visa allows US companies to employ foreign workers in speciality occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise. Technology companies depend on it to hire tens of thousands of emplovees each year from countries like India and China.

"If your FY 2021 petition was rejected or administratively closed solely because your petition was based on a registration submitted during the initial registration period. but you requested a start date after Oct. 1, 2020, you may re-submit that previously filed petition, with all applicable fees," USCIS said.
