AS AGNIPATH PROTESTS SPREAD... Govt takes a step back, Opposition calls for talks

19-yr-old killed amid incidents of violence; mayhem and arson across states

ADITI PHADNIS New Delhi, 17 June

As violence and protests against the Centre's Agnipath scheme continued unabated on Friday, despite a minor "compromise" offered by the government in the form of a one-time two-year increase in the eligibility age of recruitment, Opposition parties said the government needed to call a special session of Parliament and meetings of the Defence Consultative Committee for more extensive discussions.

Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) President J P Nadda, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh and Home Minister Amit Shah came in support of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's "transformative" scheme and the compromise "that showed PM Modi cared for the youth", suggesting that the government had walked the extra mile and would not be accommodative hereafter.

But, violence, mayhem and arson continued to rock the country, with Bihar. where the BJP is in power in alliance with the Janata Dal United, leading the pack. Properties of BJP leaders, including the residence of Deputy Chief Minister Renu Devi in Bettiah and the BJP office in Madhepura were targeted. At several places across the state, trains were attacked and set on fire.

In Telangana, protesters attacked trains at the Secunderabad railway station, leading to a firing in which a 19-year-old died.

was no rethink about the scheme in the government, far less the possibility of a rollback. Instead, the government's intelligence wings were pressed into service to analyse the "forces" behind such a coordinated and seemingly spontaneous protest.

The demands of the protestors ranged from a call for scrapping of the scheme to the considering examinations physical and written which aspirants had already taken, based on the original tour-of-duty terms.

India also climbed down from its demand to end moratorium on customs duty on electronic transmission, which anyway was considered as a bargaining tool. At the end of the day, India was happy that it won't have to take fresh disciplines in any sector even as a deal could be agreed up on.

Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal said perhaps this was the first ministerial where India set the agenda. "We were on the front foot. We were telling other countries what need to be done.'

The outcome of the WTO is not only emblematic of the importance of a multilateral trading system but is also seen as an image makeover effort by India to be seen as a deal maker than a deal breaker.
