HDFC Bank Parivartan launches 10-bed ICU project in Puducherry

Chennai, Feb 26: HDFC Bank, India's largest private sector bank, under its flagship CSR program #Parivartan has launched a 10-Bed ICU Project in Puducherry. The launch ceremony of the project was organised at Indira Gandhi Medical College and Research Institute, Puducherry, Government Hospital, Karaikal, Government Hospital, Mahe, Government Hospital, Yanam

ICUs' equipped with high-quality medical equipment, have been set up in the following government hospitals across 4 districts of Puducherry: Indira Gandhi Medical College and Research Institute, Puducherry, Government Hospital, Karaikal, Government Hospital, Mahe, Government Hospital, Yanam

The procurement and installation of state-of-the-art ICU medical equipment was undertaken at the district/taluka level government hospitals. A well-equipped ICU facility will help benefit the community at large by improving access to critical care services, enhancing public health outcomes, and increasing confidence in the local healthcare system.

HDFC Bank has partnered with the Government of Puducherry, Karuna Trust, and eGov Foundation in this initiative. The 10-Bed ICU project was started in Mar 2021 in the wake of the Covid-19 delta wave spike in India, to create critical care ICU infrastructure in rural and smaller government hospitals.

Speaking on the development, Nusrat Pathan, Head - CSR, HDFC Bank said, "Healthcare continues to remain amongst the most important pillars under #Parivartan. We strive towards the socio-economic development of the society and our objective is to create a positive impact at the grassroots level. This project will greatly benefit the people of Puducherry and render world-class intensive care. We are grateful that the local government has allowed us to partner on this critical initiative."

Kerala celebrates Attukal Pongala with religious fervour, draws massive crowds

Thiruvananthapuram, Feb 26: The devotees offered the 'pongala' (a type of rice pudding) cooked in earthen pots on brick hearths to the Attukal goddess as part of the temple festival in the state capital

Lakhs of women arrived in Thiruvananthapuram district of Kerala, on Sunday to observe 'Attukal Pongala', people familiar with the development said. At least 3,000 police personnel were deployed in different parts of the city to oversee traffic and other arrangements, said officials familiar with the matter.

The devotees offered the 'pongala' (a type of rice pudding) cooked in earthen pots on brick hearths to the Attukal goddess as part of the temple festival in the state capital.

Dubbed as one of the biggest gatherings of women in the world, the 'Attukal Pongala' is attended by women from different parts of Kerala and neighbouring states such as Tamil Nadu. The goddess at the centuries-old Attukal Devi temple is worshipped by the devotees in the form of 'Bhadrakali' or 'Kannaki' to whom the 'pongala' offering is made on the ninth day of the 10-day festival at the temple, said the people.

Women, clad in traditional 'veshti mundu,' began setting up hearths in various parts of the city before dawn, with the Indian Railways and the state-run KSRTC (Kerala State Road Transport Corporation) providing special services for their convenience, said the officials familiar with the matter. Despite early showers, the day brightened up, and festivities commenced around 10:30 am, with the chief priest transferring the sacred fire from the sanctum sanctorum to the 'Pandara Aduppu' (hearth within the temple), said the people.
