Deaths from Covid-19 jumped by 3,523 over the past 24 hours

The world's biggest producer of Covid-19 vaccines has a limited number of shots available, worsening a surge in infections that has overwhelmed hospitals and morgues

REUTERS May 1 INDIA'S RAMPANT SECOND wave of Covid-19 topped 4,00,000 new daily cases for the first time on Saturday...

ducer of Covid-19 vaccines has a limited number of shots available, worsening a surge in infections that has overwhelmed hospitals and morgues while families scramble for scarce medicines and oxygen.

at vaccination centres, promising more vaccines would arrive "tomorrow or the day after".

India's eastern Odisha state said it had received a consignment of 150,000 shots but would only allow a few people to get shots due to lockdown restrictions preventing movement.

Some experts blame mass religious gatherings and political rallies for the severity of India's second wave, which caught the government unprepared.

Biden asks administration to provide aid to India

US President Joe Biden

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA Washington, May 1

PRESIDENT JOE BIDEN has asked his administration to provide all assistance to India, which is battling one of the worst outbreaks of Covid-19...

Biden sent two of his top officials to the Dulles Airport from where another flight with USAID assistance materials including oxygen cylinders, N95 masks and filters to be used in the production of vaccines were dispatched to New Delhi.

Campbell travelled with Biden on Air Force One during his trip to Georgia. On his way back, Campbell briefed the president of the administration's Covid-19 relief efforts for India.

what USAID (United States Agency for International Development) is doing, what it hopes to accomplish," he said in response to a question.

India's Ambassador to the US Tarunjit Singh Sandhu told reporters at the Dulles Airport: "The administration, starting right from the top, President Biden reached out and in fact, to quote him, the United States will stand shoulder-to-shoulder with India. We very much appreciate that."

Sandhu also applauded the bipartisan support that India has received from American congressmen and senators. The US businesses have come forward in an unprecedented way.

"Finally, the people of the United States, their solidarity with the people of India is very much recognised and appreciated. And also the Indian American community. I'm sure, with the support of friends and partners like the United States, we will face this challenge and with God's grace, we will come out of it," Sandhu said.

Campbell said he and his National Security Council colleague Sumona Guha, who is senior director for South Asia there, were sent by the president to the airport before the COVID-19 relief material left for India.

"The President asked us to come out today to well wish this supply going to India," Campbell said, as he applauded the tireless efforts of Ambassador Sandhu for helping in every way he can.

Campbell said during his call with Prime Minister Narendra Modi last week, Biden made clear that India was one of the first countries that came to the rescue of the US in May last year when Americans were suffering from the pandemic.

"They stepped up for us. This time, we in the United States, our people in the government, but also in the private sector. I've never seen such an outpouring of support from our corporate friends, and partners, as we've seen over the last several days," he said.

"What we are coordinating is the most significant outpouring of support for people that I've never seen from the corporate community. We're trying to be there for India, now as they were with us before. We know that this is going to be a long haul," he said.

"This is only the first couple of days. We have to be determined. We have to work in partnership.... we have to do this together. And we're committed to doing that," he said.

Biden administration was working to provide India with supplies that they've asked for: oxygen, testing equipment, and PPE kits. Jeremy Konyndy, senior advisor coordinating agency-wide Covid efforts at USAID told reporters that the plane headed for India from Dulles airport sent oxygen cylinders, N95 respirators and others.

Virus mutations could 'evade immune response'

REUTERS May 1 A FORUM OF scientific advisers set up by the Indian government has told authorities about minor mutations in some samples of the coronavirus that could "possibly evade immune response" and require more study, a leader of the forum has told Reuters.

mutations, there was no reason currently to believe they were expanding or could be dangerous. Scientists are studying what led to the current surge in cases in India and particularly whether a variant first detected in the country, called B.1.617, is to blame. WHO has not declared the Indian variant a "variant of concern," as it has done for variants first detected in Britain, Brazil, South Africa.

India travel ban: US exempts students, academics, journalists

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA Washington, May 1 CERTAIN CATEGORIES OF students, academics, journalists and individuals have been exempted from the India travel ban announced by President Joe Biden, the US State Department said.

The exemptions were issued by Secretary of State Tony Blinken, hours after Biden issued a proclamation restricting travel from India beginning May 4 because of the "extraordinarily high Covid-19 caseloads and multiple variants circulating in the country".

According to the State Department, the travel ban exemption is in line with a similar exemption that the US has granted to some categories of travellers from Brazil, China, Iran or South Africa.

"In keeping with the State's commitment to facilitate legitimate travel, the US Secretary Blinken decided to apply the same set of National Interest Exceptions to India that he had applied to all other regional travel restrictions currently as a result of the pandemic," said the Department.
