Bigger plans for chip design

The semiconductor DLI scheme is part of the government of the government is part of the government is scheme. The government has kept aside $1,000 crore for the DLI scheme. As part of the scheme, the government will reimburse 50% of the design-related expenditure incurred by startupswith a ceiling of $15 crore.

Besides, the government will also provide deployment-linked incentives of 4-6% of net sales turnover over five years subject to a ceiling of ₹30 crore per application years subject to a ceiling of $30 crore per application.

The incentives will be provided to approved applicants whose semiconductor design for integrated circuits (1Cs), chipsets, system on chips (SoCs), systems & IP cores and semiconductor-linked design are deployed in electronic products.

"Instead of saying that the DLI scheme is only for startups, we will say anybody who has a chip design can apply as long as it is an original chip long as it is an original chip that is going to go into an application, and the intellec-tual property (IP) is Indian. We will look at supporting them financially." Chan-drasekhar said. When asked about spe-cific incentives for ancillary companies whose products will be used by semiconduc-tor scheme beneficiaries for making or assembling chips, Chandrasekhar said the government will not provide incentives for ancillary companies.

However, the state governments can do that if they want, adding that for supply chain and ancillary companies, state governments can give land, water and electricity to attract them.

On India's partnership with Taiwan for the semiconductor ecosystem, Chandrasekhar said India is exploring skilling and technology and capability lie-ups.

technology and capability tie-ups.

"A partnership with Tai-wanese companies is very much on the cards," he added. With regard to skilling and talent for semiconductors, the government has rolled out a curriculum being implemented by 300 colleges and universities.

Also, while some best-selling models have been hatchbacks, not all are doing well. While the Wagon Rand the Baleno are seeing good demand, sales of the Alto and the S-Presso have dropped—in QIFY24, sales of both these entry-level cars plunged 17.6% (from 48,987 units in QIFY23 to just 40,400 units in QIFY24).

One of the biggest sales drops was of Renault Kwid—once touted as a global car made in India, for India and the world — whose sales dropped 47.5% (from 6,146 units in QIFY23 to just 3,228 units in QIFY24).
