Linkage coal: Nod to surplus power sale

Move aims to ensure optimum utilisation of generating stations

AGGAM WALIA
New Delhi, April 23

COAL-BASED THERMAL plants can use linkage coal to offer surplus power in the power market, the ministry of power clarified to all generating companies on Monday. The clarification was issued to ensure "optimum utilisation of generating stations" as India braces for a hotter-than-usual summer, which is set to push peak demand to a record 260 GW. In recent weeks, the ministry has already issued instructions to imported coal-based units and all gas-based thermal plants to remain operational in the coming months to avoid power outages. In response to representations received from power generating companies, which highlighted the stipulation that usage of linkage coal — coal that is "linked" between coal companies and thermal units against firm power purchase agreements — is only allowed to meet long-term obligations with distribution companies or discoms, the power ministry clarified on Monday that the regulatory framework "allows generating companies... to offer the un-requisitioned surplus power in the power market".

The ministry referred to Section 9(5) of the Electricity (Late Payment Surcharge and Related Matters) Rules, 2022, which "provides for sale of surplus power, which is within the declared generation capacity but not requisitioned by distribution companies". In other words, thermal power plants can use coal supplied through long-term contracts to sell surplus electricity in the power exchange.

The power ministry clarification came as the country braces for hotter-than-usual summers

The latest clarification comes on the heels of the ministry's instruction to 15 imported coal-based plants to operate at full capacity until October 15, and to idling gas-based thermal plants to remain operational from May until the end of June. These measures underscore the ministry's cautious approach to mitigate the risk of power outages amid elections and forecasts of record-breaking heat waves. Even though India added a record renewable capacity of over 18 GW in FY24, much of the generation capacity addition over the last ten years has been by way of renewable power capacity. The variability in renewable energy generation is consequently putting pressure on the base load capacity, especially thermal units, during evening hours of surging demand. India's reliance on coal and gas to meet peak demand is more pronounced given the absence of an adequate energy storage infrastructure in the country, which can help store excess energy generated by solar and wind plants during non-peak hours and release it during peak hours.

While the deficit between peak demand and peak supply has narrowed in recent years, from an average of -5.9% between FY10 and FY19 to -1.5% between FY20 and FY24, it could widen again if the surge in renewable capacity is not adequately complemented with energy storage infrastructure. The peak deficit measures the difference between peak demand and peak supply. In FY23, the peak deficit stood at -8.7 GW, 4% of the peak demand of 216 GW in April. In FY24, peak demand rose to 243 GW in September but the deficit was contained at 1.4% owing to a cooler-than-expected summer caused by unseasonal rainfall.

Spectrum auction to continue for mobile services

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, April 23

SPECTRUM FOR MOBILE services will continue to be allocated through the auction process, sources in the government told FE on Tuesday. Any administrative allocation the government will make will be limited to areas like walkie-talkie for police organisations, radar for weather forecasting, radar and communication for ships, communication for space and satellite applications, communication and radar for the Army, Air Force and the Navy, and PSUs such as BSNL. The same has been clearly defined in the Telecom Act, 2023, officials said.

In fact, for mobile services, one auction for 4G and 5G spectrum has already been scheduled in June. The distinction between mobile services and other narrowly defined areas is important as the government on Monday moved the Supreme Court for urgently listing its application seeking permission for administrative allocation of spectrum in cases which involve public interest or where economic or technical grounds are involved.

The government filed the application in the Supreme Court following the due process before introducing the Telecom Bill in Parliament. Sources said the application doesn't ask for changing the Supreme Court judgment. In the application, the government has argued that competitive auctions mandated by the 2G judgment may not always be suitable for either technical or economic reasons, especially in the context of using spectrum for discharge of non-commercial sovereign functions like security, safety, and disaster preparedness.

In a first of its kind, the Telecom Act cleared the way for allocation of spectrum for satellite communication services through the administrative route. This has been done by putting these services under Schedule 1 where so far only government and security-related services figured. For the first time, private firms will figure in this list.

The department of telecommunications (DoT) will also seek views of the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (Trai) on pricing and methodology to allocate spectrum for space-based communication services.

Kejriwal to stay in Tihar till May 7, given insulin

A DELHI COURT on Tuesday extended till May 7 the judicial custody of chief minister Arvind Kejriwal and BRS leader KK Kavitha in a money laundering case related to the alleged excise policy scam in the national capital. Special judge for CBI and ED matters Kaveri Baweja extended the custody of Kejriwal and Kavitha along with co-accused Chanpreet Singh, who allegedly managed the Aam Aadmi Party's (AAP) funds in the 2022 Goa assembly elections, after they were produced before the court through video conference on the expiry of their remand.

Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal

Meanwhile, Kejriwal was administered a "low dose" of insulin on Monday evening on the advice of the AIIMS doctors after his blood sugar level spiked, officials of Tihar jail said on Tuesday. The Delhi CM was arrested on March 21 by the ED in the money laundering case and has been lodged in Tihar jail since April 1.

Australian journalist leaves India, says no visa extension

DIVYAA
New Delhi, April 23

DAYS AFTER HER news report on the killing of Sikh separatist Hardeep Singh Nijjar was blocked on YouTube in India, the Australian Broadcasting Corporation's (ABC News) South Asia Bureau chief Avani Dias left India. She claimed she was told by the Indian authorities that her visa extension would not come through. There was no immediate comment from India's ministry of external affairs. The Australian High Commission in New Delhi too did not respond to an email seeking comments. Dias, who had been living and working in India for the last two-and-a-half years, said she found it difficult to do her job here.

"Last week, I had to leave India abruptly. The Modi Government told me my visa extension would be denied, saying my reporting 'crossed a line'," she wrote Tuesday on social media platform X.

"After Australian Government intervention, I got a mere two-month extension... less than 24 hours before my flight... We were also told my election accreditation would not come through because of an Indian Ministry directive. We left on day one of voting in the national election in what Modi calls 'the mother of democracy'."

In March this year, Dias had produced a news report titled 'Sikhs, Spies and Murder: Investigating India's alleged hit on foreign soil' on the killing of Nijjar outside a gurudwara in Canada. The episode — part of ABC's Foreign Correspondent news series — was blocked by YouTube in India, after an order from the Union ministry of electronics and information technology, the broadcaster had claimed on March 27.

In what had led to a diplomatic fracas with India, Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau had in September 2023 told his country's parliament that intelligence agencies were actively pursuing "credible allegations" tying agents of the Indian government to Nijjar's death. New Delhi had described this claim as "absurd and motivated".

The ABC said it stood by the journalism of the story. "It was meticulously researched and balanced and sought an array of perspectives, and upholds the highest editorial standards," a spokesperson said in a statement on the broadcaster's website.

In a podcast titled 'Looking for Modi' published from Australia on Monday, Dias said she had been living and working in India for the last two-and-a-half years, and that she was informed of the decision via a phone call from an official at the Ministry of External Affairs, who said her most recent Foreign Correspondent episode "crossed a line".

"It felt too difficult to do my job in India. I was struggling to get into public events run by Modi's party, the government wouldn't even give me the passes I need to cover the election and the ministry left it all so late that we were already packed up and ready to go," Dias said in the podcast. "It's by design. The Narendra Modi government has made me feel so uncomfortable that we decided to leave," she said.

Prior to this, upon receiving a Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology order, YouTube and social media platform X had blocked access in India to a report by CBC News' The Fifth Estate on Nijjar's killing.
