Store review: Some lending apps thriving on Google Play despite violations

AT LEAST SIX other apps remain available at the store that offer loan repayment lengths, or tenures, some as low as seven days, according to 15 borrowers and screenshots of loan details from all six apps shared with Reuters.

Some of these apps apply steep processing fees, as high as ₹2,000 on loans of less than ₹10,000 with tenures of 30 days or under, according to the 15 borrowers. Together with other charges, including one-off registration costs, borrowers can pay, in real terms, interest rates as high as 60% per week, their loan details show.

By comparison, Indian banks typically offer personal loan with annual interest rates of 10-20%, and they usually do not have to be repaid in full for at least a year.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) did not respond to a request for comment about whether it planned to step up supervisory action. In December, it issued a public notice about lending apps, warning some engaged in "unscrupulous activities", such as charging excessive interest rates and fees.

Google, which dominates India's app market with over 98% of smartphones using its Android platform, said its policies were "continuously updated in response to new and emerging threats and bad actors".

"We take action on apps that are flagged to us by users and regulatory bodies," it added.

When contacted by Reuters, the apps offering short tenures either denied wrongdoing or did not respond. The apps, many of which act as intermediaries connecting borrowers and lending institutions, are not breaking the law as the RBI has no rules covering minimum loan tenures.

The RBI also does not oversee intermediaries.

The finance ministry and information technology ministry did not respond to requests for comments on whether they planned to increase scrutiny of these apps. The four apps found to have breached Google's repayment length policy - 10MinuteLoan, Ex-Money, Studred and Extra Mudra - were advertising loan tenures of 30 days on their apps and had been downloaded a total of at least 1.5 million times.

Reuters flagged those apps to Google on December 18 and they were taken down from the Play Store in India within four days. "Google has unilaterally decided that fintech apps cannot be on their app store which have repayments under 30 days, even though no law relating to the same has been passed that would require such action on their (Google's) part." —REUTERS

Future-RIL deal: Amazon moves Delhi HC's division bench for relief

Farm unions welcome SC's suggestion to stay agri laws

However, They Want 'Repeal Forthwith'

Vishwa.Mohan

New Delhi: Farm unions opposed to the new central farm Acts on Monday welcomed the Supreme Court's suggestion to stay implementation of the laws, but said the "laws must be repealed forthwith" and made it clear that they will not participate either collectively or individually in any proceedings before a committee that may be appointed by the apex court.

"We met our lawyers this (Monday) evening at length and after deliberation on pros and cons of the suggestions of the committee, we informed them that we are unanimously not agreeable to go before any committee," said the 'Samyukta Kisan Morcha' - a platform which represents all 40 unions, including 32 from Punjab, which have been in discussions with government.

The Morcha in a joint statement said, "All the farmer organizations who are spearheading the fight against the farm laws are unanimous in their decision that laws must be repealed forthwith." The concern of the unions, as evident from the views of individual leaders, is about options in case the committee concluded the laws were constitutionally valid or that there was merit in them. Any conclusion that the laws are not altogether bad for farmers would put the repeal demand in jeopardy. They also expressed fears that the stir will lose momentum if suspended.

In a late development, the government filed an affidavit in the apex court saying the farm laws received wide acceptance across the country. The government is against repeal of the laws and has claimed that the legislations took shape after two decades of intense deliberations and consultations with the stakeholders.

The stand of farm unions reflect their uneasiness with suggestions of setting up a committee to discuss various clauses of the laws as they believe that the move would eventually end up suggesting amendments to Acts which they have already rejected. They also argue that the government repeatedly told the Court that it won't discuss "repeal" issue before the panel. Since the farmers' bodies want a repeal of laws, their protests would continue.

SC stay sought on farmers' rally on R-Day

New Delhi: The home ministry moved the Supreme Court on Monday seeking to restrain protesting farmers from taking out a tractor rally on Republic Day and said it would be a huge embarrassment to the nation if the constitutional ceremony was disrupted in any manner or a law and order situation arose.

The application, filed through joint commissioner of Delhi Police Jaspal Singh, said activities relating to Republic Day function started with the rehearsal of parade by the armed forces a few days before January 26, ending with the Beating the Retreat ceremony on January 29 and Martyrs' Day on January 30.

"Any disruption or obstruction to the said functions would not only be against law and order, public order, public interest but would also be a huge embarrassment for the nation," it said. The SC is likely to hear the application on Tuesday.

Unions say they will not meet expert panel

But the court has to await the formal answer to whether the representatives of protesting farmers, who have hardened their opposition demanding nothing except repeal of the laws, will appear before the expert panel to discuss the pros and cons of the laws. Late on Monday evening, the unions opposed to the new farm laws said they would not meet the proposed committee.

The court has listed the petitions for passing orders on Tuesday. The farmers have refused to discuss the laws clause by clause with the Centre even as several farm bodies have sought implementation of the new legislations. In court, senior advocate Dushyant Dave, appearing for eight farm unions protesting at the Singhu border, said he would have to consult the unions about their willingness to go before the committee.

CJI Bobde said, "If you (farmers) have been going to the negotiating table with the government, why won't you go to the committee set up by the SC? Don't create this odd argument." Appearing for the eight unions, senior advocates

Dave, H S Phoolka, Colin Gonsalves and advocate Prashant Bhushan welcomed the suggestion to keep implementation of the laws in abeyance, though the Centre said this should not be done without any legal infirmity being established. SG Tushar Mehta said the court's observations on the government's handling of the protests were harsh.

The bench clarified that its observations were "the most inopportune that could have been made in the fact situation". The lawyers for the unions informed a bench of CJI S A Bobde, A S Bopanna and V Ramasubramanian that they would consult the farmers and get back to the court on Tuesday.

U'khand bid to denotify Shivalik jumbo reserve stayed

Prashant.Jha@timesgroup.com

Nainital: The Uttarakhand high court (HC) on Monday stayed the government order (GO) issued on Friday denotifying Shivalik Elephant Reserve. The GO had been issued by the state government hours after the HC stayed the state wildlife board's recommendation denotifying the state's only elephant reserve. Forest minister Harak Singh Rawat had then called it a "coincidence" that the GO and the HC stay were issued on the same day, alleging that he had no knowledge of the stay while passing the order.

The case will be heard next on March 4. The bench of Chief Justice RS Chauhan and Justice Manoj Kumar Tiwari held that the government's notification goes against the provisions of the Forest Conservation Act 1980.

"Section 2 of the Forest Conservation Act 1980 makes it mandatory for the state or any authority to seek permission from the Centre before any such denotification. We therefore informed the court about the illegality with the government notification," Abhijay Negi, counsel appearing for petitioner Reenu Paul, told TOI.

Bird deaths continue as flu confirmed in 9 states, one UT

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Avian influenza spread to more districts and states in the country on Monday even as migratory and other birds continued to drop dead in several towns and villages. With bird samples taken from Delhi and Uttarakhand confirming the H5N8 virus on Monday, avian influenza has spread to nine states and a Union territory. The other affected states are Maharashtra, Rajasthan, Gujarat, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Kerala and Madhya Pradesh.

To contain the spread Uttar Pradesh and Himachal Pradesh banned poultry from other states. An alert was sounded in Uttarakhand after samples of two dead crows sent for testing returned positive from ICAR-NIHSAD (National Institute of High Security Animal Disease) in Bhopal. On Monday, Dehradun divisional forest office officials spotted 127 dead birds in different locations.

What was alarming was the sighting of one dead spotted dove in Rajaji Tiger Reserve, six mynas in Chidambaram, Rishikesh and four pigeons in AIIMS Rishikesh. Jaipur zoo in Rajasthan was shut indefinitely on Monday after four

Quell rumours, don't shut markets: Centre

The Centre on Monday asked states not to close markets of poultry products out of panic, saying there is no risk to humans if animal or poultry products are boiled or cooked properly before consumption. "There is no need to get panicked about bird flu. Cases of bird flu have been frequently reported in India since 2006. There is, however, no risk at all to humans if animal products are cooked properly before eating," said Union minister of animal husbandry and dairying Giriraj Singh. Referring to the Delhi government's decision to shut Ghazipur poultry market, Singh said the move has created panic.

birds — three common ducks and a black stork — died. The zoo administration has sent their swab samples to ICAR-NIHSAD for confirmation. The virus spread to two more districts of the state — Tonk and Karauli — on Monday. With this, 15 of the state's 33 districts have been hit by bird flu. As many as 371 bird deaths were reported

WhatsApp group links were visible on Google: Report

New Delhi: At least 1,700 private WhatsApp group links were visible on Google through a simple web search, according to a recent report.

Published by internet security researcher Rajshakar Rajaharia, the report claimed that the groups' links available on the web posed a threat to WhatsApp users' privacy. Rajaharia had shared screenshots of the WhatsApp group links on his Twitter profile on Sunday afternoon.

"Anyone who had access to these links could join these private groups, see the participants there and also have access to the group members' phone numbers and profile photos," he told TOI on Sunday. On Monday, WhatsApp fixed the issue, and the links were no longer visible on Google. "Since March 2020, WhatsApp has included the 'noindex' tag on all deep link pages which, according to Google, will exclude them from indexing. We have given our feedback to Google to not index these chats. As a reminder, whenever someone joins a group, everyone in that group receives a notice and the admin can revoke or change the group invite link at any time," a WhatsApp spokesperson said in a statement.

According to Rajaharia, the issue arose because "WhatsApp allows users to generate rich preview links of group chat invites that eventually may allow search engine crawlers to identify the links and then index them for future searches". An index is another name for the database used by a search engine. This is the second time that WhatsApp has faced this issue. The Facebook-owned instant messaging platform had said in 2020 that it had fixed an issue that was causing phone numbers to show up on Google.

MSME secy takes VRS amid buzz of new role

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

New Delhi: MSME secretary Arvind Kumar Sharma, an officer who has worked closely with Prime Minister Narendra Modi ever since he was Gujarat CM, has taken voluntary retirement amid a buzz that the IAS officer is set to bag a prized assignment.

Sharma, who was until last year additional secretary in the PMO, was scheduled to retire in July 2022. An order issued by the ministry of micro, small and medium enterprises (MSME) said the 1988-batch IAS officer's request for VRS was accepted on Monday.

His sudden departure, days after he was assigned the additional charge of textiles ministry, has set off speculation about his next assignment. With Sharma's departure, there are at least half-a-dozen ministries that are without a full-time secretary, including the two he was in-charge of.

Mumbai: The ex-CEO of Broadcast Audience Research Council, Partho Dasgupta, misused his official position, connived with other accused, including Republic TV's Arnab Goswami, and thus manipulated TRP ratings, bringing Republic TV to the No. 1 position, a supplementary chargesheet submitted by the Mumbai police in the TRP scam said.

The chargesheet, which runs into 3,600 pages, has shown Republic TV's COO Priya Mukherjee, its chief financial officer Shiva Sundaram and employees Shivendu Mulherkar and Ranjit Walter, among others, as wanted accused. Apart from this, Amit Dave, Sanjeev Verma and other officials of Mahamovies channel are also shown as wanted accused.

ED questions India Today group CFO

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Monday questioned India Today group's CFO for seven hours in a money laundering case the agency is investigating in connection with the Television Rating Points (TRP) manipulation scam. The ED has recorded the statements of over 15 persons in the case including the complainant in the scam Hansa Research Group's deputy general manager, Nitin Deokar, officials of Broadcasting Audience Research Council (BARC) and those earlier arrested by the Mumbai police. Deokar, the original complainant in the police case had accused a former employee of his company, Vishal Bhandari, for TRP manipulation.

BJP backs BSY, quells rumours of retirement

New Delhi: The BJP brass has strongly backed BS Yeddyurappa's continuance as Karnataka chief minister for the full term in a move intended to quell speculation about his retirement.

The top leadership's support for Yeddyurappa, seen as the party's tallest leader in Karnataka and one who has delivered for the party, including in recent assembly by-polls, comes along with a nod for the expansion of the state ministry, which will take place on Wednesday. At present, the state cabinet has 27 ministers against a total capacity of 34 and an expansion has been on the cards for over a year now. Yeddyurappa had a significant meeting with Home Minister Amit Shah and BJP President JP Nadda on Sunday along with general secretary (Karnataka in-charge) Arun Singh. During the meeting with Shah, Yeddyurappa was assured the party's support.

HC raises brow on sedition charge

Swati.Deshpande

Mumbai: Observing that it has "serious reservations" over invoking the penal section of sedition against actor Kangana Ranaut, the Bombay high court on Monday continued its interim protection till January 25 from any coercive action in the case over her tweets.

A division bench of Justice S S Shinde and Manish Pitale was hearing Ranaut and her sister Rangoli Chandel's plea against the criminal case. They sought that it be quashed and the order of a magistrate directing police to register the FIR also be quashed, and that pending final disposal of their petition, the entire prosecution and investigation be stayed and no coercive steps taken against them.

The HC had last November in an interim order granted protection to Ranaut and her sister from any coercive action and arrest by Mumbai police in an alleged sedition and hate speech case registered against them over their online posts.

The court on Monday also directed Mumbai police not to summon the sisters for questioning till the next hearing.

At the last hearing, the HC orally had observed, "It has become routine that IPC 124-A (sedition) is added in complaint. For what? Are we treating citizens of the country like this?"

On Monday, the HC said, "We anyway have serious reservations about invoking 124A of IPC." Both sisters had appeared before Bandra police on January 8 to record their statements following their assurance given to the HC last November. Ranaut's advocate Rizwan Siddiquee, challenged the October 2020 Bandra magistrate's order that had directed Mumbai police to register an FIR.

Widow in MP gangraped by four, brutalised with rod, but survives

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Bhopal: In a gruesome reminder of the Nirbhaya horror, a 45-year-old widow was gang-raped and brutalised with an iron rod in MP Sidhi district on Sunday night.

Grievously injured and bleeding continuously, she survived being shifted two hospitals and over 120km of road journey until she could reach a hospital that could perform the life-saving surgery. She is stable but in ICU. Four men accused of the savagery have been arrested. The crime has triggered nationwide condemnation. Former AICC chief Rahul Gandhi tweeted: "Another Nirbhaya! How long shall we tolerate assault on women?" Former CM Kamal Nath tweeted: "This savage crime has shamed us. The government should take strong action to stop crimes against women."

According to the survivor's statement to police, one of the rapists knocked on her door on Sunday night and asked for water. When she turned her back on him, he pushed her and barged in. Three other men who were hiding nearby followed him.

All four of them raped her and brutalised her with an iron rod in front of her younger sister, who could only cower in a corner in helplessness and horror. Her screams went unheard as the survivor lives on the outskirts. They left her writhing in agony and walked off.

Her sister, who had come to visit her that day, ran to get help from villagers. The widow was losing consciousness by the time they could reach Amiliya police station.
