'Future of BEST bus service bleak, political will missing'

Commuters say no party has raised the issue, impacting several lakhs

As the state polls draw closer, the city is buzzing with political promises, debates and rallies. Politicians are leaving no stone unturned to woo the voters. However, one crucial issue seems to be missing from the discussions, which is the steady decline of Mumbai's public transport system...

existing strength is a stark contrast to 2007 when the fleet comprised more than 4,600 buses. The gradual reduction in the number of buses has left commuters waiting longer at bus stops, particularly during rush hours.

The growing reliance on our lease buses has only exacerbated the problem. BEST should own more buses, but due to a lack of funds, we are dependent on contractors, said a senior official speaking on the condition of anonymity.

The decline in the fleet has also impacted BEST workers, who expressed their frustration over not getting their Diwali bonuses yet. Although the BMC has deposited the funds, the money has not been credited to employees due to the election code of conduct.

It's been almost two weeks since Diwali and we still haven't received our bonuses. The BMC has deposited the funds in the account of BEST, but it has yet to be distributed to the workers, said an official.

Inside sources said that the administration has sought approval from the competent authority to release the bonuses, but it has not yet received it, leaving the employees in lurch.

Political indifference, public discontent
The looming crisis is conspicuously absent from election manifestos. "It's disheartening to see that every party is busy with divide-and-rule politics, while ignoring the very real issue of public transport," said Ramesh Kamble, 56, a commuter from Vikhroli.

We depend on BEST buses for our daily lives whether it's going to work, visiting a hospital or attending school. The system is failing and no one seems to care," he added.

Despite protests by unions and growing public discontent, the political parties have not prioritised the BEST's much-needed revival. "Without immediate intervention and investment, the future of BEST is bleak. Mumbaiers deserve a reliable, affordable and efficient public transport system. It is high time that political leaders and the authorities take action to restore BEST to its former glory as being the city's lifeline," said Sandesh Shirke, 48, while waiting at length for bus number 115 at CSMT on Friday.

Frauds pose as firm head, dupe senior staff of ₹95L

A 61-year-old man, who works as a chief accountant at a private company, transferred ₹95 lakh fund to fraudsters who impersonated the firm director. In order to trick the senior citizen, the cheaters had used the photograph of the director as the WhatsApp display picture (DP).

According to the police, the complainant, who hails from Dhule, received a WhatsApp message from an unknown number on October 23. "My network signal is not good right now. This is my new WhatsApp. Please save it," read the text. Upon checking the DP, the man found that it was of the director and didn't sense something amiss.

Next day, he again received a message from the same number. "I am currently in a meeting with government officials and need you to handle something. We need to pay an advance payment of ₹5 lakh for a project," said the message. It further read, "They require immediate transfer, can we proceed with the payment immediately? I will send you the client account details shortly and you proceed with payment."

The fraudster then shared the beneficiary account details, said the man, adding that he made the payment, thinking that the instructions were from his boss. On October 25 when the impostor again demanded ₹85 lakh, the man brought this to the notice of another senior official. The cheating finally came to the fore, after which the sexagenarian approached the police.

Strict rules to curb luring of blood donors with incentives

The State Blood Transfusion Council (SBTC) has issued a stern directive to all blood centres and blood donation camp organisers, warning against offering substantial gifts to donors who impersonate the firm director. In order to trick the senior citizen, the cheaters had used the photograph of the director as the WhatsApp display picture (DP).

During its 51st meeting held on October 8, the SBTC raised concerns about flouting the principle of voluntary blood donation. The council emphasised that donation should be an altruistic act, free from any material compensation. In line with the National Blood Transfusion Council and the World Health Organisation guidelines, "Offering such incentives risks reducing blood donation to a transactional activity, which undermines its ethical foundation," said an SBTC official.

In a circular dated November 13, the SBTC outlined new measures to ensure compliance. "Blood centres must secure written undertakings from organisers, affirming that no substantial gifts will be distributed. These documents must be retained for five years and be available for inspection by the SBTC or the Food and Drug Administration," pointed out the official.

While substantial gifts are prohibited, the guidelines allow for small tokens of appreciation such as meal coupons, badges, T-shirts or mementos. These items are seen as gestures of gratitude and align with the ethos of voluntary donation. According to the official, the daily blood unit requirement for Mumbai alone is between 500-700 units and the city needs close to 25,000 donors to meet the demand.

The whole blood and most of the other blood components have a shelf life of up to 45 days. October 26, which fell on Saturday, marked the commencement of the Diwali festivities, recorded the highest number of air traffic movements (ATM), including arrivals and departures, with 939 flights on a single day, marking it the busiest day in the month, MIAL said. The facility saw a remarkable rise in ATM in October, with 19,848 domestic and 7,222 international.

Mumbai airport's total passenger traffic increased 4% year-on-year to over 4.42 million in October, thanks to festive travel demand, Mumbai International Airport Ltd (MIAL) said on Friday.

The Chairman Shivaji Maharaj International Airport (CSMIA), the country's second busiest airport, handled 4.25 million passengers in October 2024. Significantly, this year, three major festivals -

Violations may lead to suspension or cancellation of operating licenses
