It is alleged by the petitioner that the respondents later rushed to SBI and paid an amount of Rs.8.80 crores as against Rs.10 crores which was the amount due by RI company to SBI. It is alleged that as per the undertaking dt:12.09.2012 given by M/s Lemonade Shares and Securities Limited which was fraudulently trying to acquire R1 company, the same was settled within 30 days from the date of NOC from SBI. It is alleged that SBI issued NOC on 27.11.2012 and the term loan should be settled by 26.11.2012 but the R2 deliberately delayed payment only after sensing the fraud made by him and disclosed by the petitioner. 5. The R2 filed counter and the same is adopted by other respondents. The substance of the counter filed by R2 is as follows: The respondent.No.2 denied the different allegations made by the petitioners and stated that the suit itself is suffering from various defects and the petitioner approached the Court with unclean the subject of the R1 company and he used the company for his own

It is alleged that this agreement was never acted upon and implemented and CSL never received any fee from RKDL for the services and the assignments entered into by RKDL with CSL are separate and independent of each other and one is in relation to public issue of RKDL whereas other is for advising on compliance on legal issues post listing of shares of RKDL on the stock exchanges.

5. It is further alleged by R2 that an amount of Rs.72, 35 crores was received by RKDL was transferred from public issue account created by RKDL to the current account of RKDL after deduction of the public issue expenses amounting to Rs.1.25 crores. It is alleged by R2 that the monies were not transferred to any other account using the alleged pre-signed cheques issued by the petitioner and the bank account of RKDL was never under his control and the transfer of Rs.31 crores to various associate companies of CSL as alleged by the petitioner is entirely baseless and the R2 is not aware of the utilisation of money by the petitioner and RKDL. It is alleged that in the month of February, 2011, the petitioner and RKDL approached Comfort Infotech Limited a group company of CSL for a loan of Rs.10 crores and not Rs.5 crores and CIL agreed to disburse the loan of Rs.6.82 crores from time to time subject to appropriate security being provided to securable loan and CIL disbursed an amount of Rs.6.82 crores over a period of 6 months in between Feb, 2011 and August, 2011. It is alleged that the petitioner offered to secure the loan to be provided by CIL to RKDL by way of pledging 51.77% of his holding in RKDL and accordingly, 93,49,719 equity shares held by the petitioner and Rs.30,75,000 equity shares held by Ravi Kumar Properties Private Limited, a group of entity of the petitioner were pledged with CIL for the loan of Rs.6.82 crores. It is alleged that the documents pertaining to the pledging of the above shares also submerged to SEBI and he never took any pre signed cheques and the petitioner mis-used and abused his position in D1 company and made several payments for his personal benefit. It is alleged that the petitioner transferred Rs.5.5 crores to Danuka Real Estate and investment limited and he also mis used funds borrowed from SBI to a tune of Rs.10 crores and diverted the said amount for his personal purpose. It is alleged by R2 that there was a fall in the crises of shares of market year and to further secure its interest, CIL officially registered the pledge of 1,24,24,719 equity shares constituting 51.77% of the total paid up share capital of RKDL and intimated to the stock exchanges and RKDL and the stock exchanges displayed the information about the creation of pledge on its websites for the knowledge of the public at large. It is alleged that in pursuance of the above pledge, RKDL intimated CIL to deposit the cheque dt:05.12.2011 for Rs.7,49,08,025 drawn on Axis Bank Limited towards repayment of the loan along with interest, however, the cheque was dishonoured for insufficient funds and the petitioner soon after the dishonour of the cheque by RKDL intimated the stock exchanges and SEBI about the registration of equity shares by CIL claiming it to be illegal apprehending invocation of the pledged shares by CIL towards the loan disbursed to RKDL. It is alleged that as RKDL committed default in repayment of loan with interest, CIL invoked and sold 76,24,719 equity shares pledged by the perturing in the open market and there was a shortfall of Rs.9,34,988/- excluding petialty and interest. The R2 denied that the sale of equity shares was carried out by forging the signatures of the petitioner and as the pledge was invoked from the shares transferred to the account of CIL and CIL sold shares and in order to settle the shortfall on the pledge of the balance equty shares, the petitioner representeatives B.Gandhi and P.Meena issued a cheque of Rs.12 lakhs towards the full and final settlement of the outstanding loan and accordingly, an intimation was sent by RKDL and SEBI withdrawing all the complaints made by RKDL that were made against CIL in the past. It is alleged that the respondents never made plan to take over RKDL and it is a story invented by the petitioner and the payment made from Comfort Intech limited is towards the loan given against the security of shares which is independent transaction and with regard to the declaration of the loan amount, it is generally practice to invoke the shares as the petitioner failed to pay the money.

It is alleged by the respondents that they are un aware of the alleged 6. demand of Rs.15 crores and the R2 was not a party to any such MOU and MOU dated:21.12.2012 is fabricated and created by the petitioner and the so called document does not contain any proof about the presence of R2 and others and the same was created for the purpose of present case. It is alleged that the matter pertaining to Rs.95 lakhs, the petitioner is mis representing the Court by making false statements and the petitioner approached CSL to buy the shares of RKDL in open market and the claim made by the petitioner is irrelevant and baseless and the petitioner is trying to link two different transactions before this Court. It is further stated by R2 that he was unaware of the MOU sent by the petitioner or his persons with GP Junjunwala on 06.02.2012 and also any plans for hostile takeover and the petitioners some how wanted to approach different persons everywhere and get some benefit by adapting dubious tactics. The R2 admitted about the filing of IA.No.405 of 2013 and contesting the same by filing counter. It is alleged by R2 that the allegations made by the petitioner are absurd, baseless and created story to justify his false case and he approached SBI on 28.01.2013 with a DD of Rs.8.8 crores towards the discharge of RKDL liability to facilitate to realease the document of R1. It is alleged that the R2 that the petitioner approached the court with unclean hands and after the exparte orders, EGM was not conducted and the same was intimated to the petioner prior to filing of WS and the said facts were brought to the notice of the court in the data of appearance and the petitioner who is guilty of suppression of facts, is grantitled to claim any relief and ultimately the respondents prayed for dismissal both the applications with costs.

CENTRA

- 7. On perusal of the pleadings of the parties, and hearing the advocates on record, none of them filed original documents pertaining to their pleadings. The Xerox copies are disputed by parties and both of them intend to mark before this Court, therefore, this court not inclined to grant Xerox copies of the documents in view of disputing the same by the other side.
- 8. On perusing the pleadings of parties and the contentions raised by the parties, the following two points are raised for consideration
- i. Whether the petitioner R.VRavi kumar is entitled to seek temporary injunction against the respondents restraining from ordering the Board of Directors or Shareholder of Respondent company and pass such other orders as required?
- Whether the petitioner R.VRavi Kumar is entitled to seek temporary injunction against the respondents restraining from alienating the movable and immovables properties of R1 shown in the petition schedule by way of sale, lease, mortgage or otherwise during the pendeny of the suit?

9. POINT:

It is the admitted fact that RKDL is a company run by the petitioner Ravi Kumar under the Companies Act and carrying on business. It is also an admitted fact that Comfort Securities Limited was appointed as Merchant Banker to release money by IPO of RKDL and accordingly, Rs.73.60 crores was realised by way of IPO and out of the said amount, 42.63 crores was transferred to RKDL. It is the admitted fact that R2 is the director of R1 and also the other companies as referred in the counter filed by the respondent. The petitioner is alleging that he put his signatures on blank cheques and documents as per the representation made by R2 when RKDL was going for public issue of shares. The R2 admittedly acted as agent on behalf of the petitioner and issued public issue of RKDL and the public issue was subscribed and money was realised. The petitioner is company that taking advantage of pre-signed cheques and documents, R2 in collusion with other respondents, started making attempts to take away the RKDL of the petitioner and at the same time, the R1 company in which the petitioner has major share and thereby created false documents and diverted the money as if the amount was diverted by the petitioner. The respondent contended that it is the petitioner who from time to time diligently acted and he used the money collected by way of public issue for his personal purposes

Ded he also raised loan from SBI and raised loan from CIL by pledging the shares of the subsequently sold towards the final settlement of the outstanding loan payble to CIL and ultimately the shares were purchased by Comfort Securities Limited in the open market and the petitioner suppressed the facts and filed the suit. It is contended by the respondents that the disputed amounts are not known to R2 and it is the petitioner who created the same and claiming recession of MOU, dt;05.09.2004. The petitioner approached the Hon'ble High Court of A.P by filing WPNo.127 of 2013 when he filed writ M.P.No.15944 of 2014 by impleading R1 and R2 as parties apart from other parties. The Hon'ble High Court of A.P passed order on 23.04.2014 in WPMPNo.15944 of 2014 directing the R2 and Tilaknagar Industries Limited who is the R5 in the above petition not to create any charge or 3rd party interest relating to the assets of the company and it is not known whether the said orders continued or not. The material on record goes to show that the R2 who is the Director of Comfort Securities Limited, acted as agent to the pubic issue of RKDL by entering into MOU. The contention of the respondent is that after the closure of the public issue, the plaintiff approached CSL for guidance with regard to listing of case and for soliciting the other legal complications and for which, the Comfort Securities Limited acted as retainer on a fee of Rs 2 lakhs and pocket expenses. It is stated by the R2 that the entire amount of Rs.72,35 crores received by RKDL was transferred from the public issue pleaded by RKDL to the current account of RKDL. The petitioners alleged that only part of the amount was transferred and the rest of the amount is not transferred. All these things are to be decided in the trial of the suit. The petitioners for recession of MOU alleging fraud and mis representation by the respondents particularly by R2 who entered into the business of the petitioner as Merchant Banker for the issue of public issue of RKDL. How far the R2 acted faithfully in collecting the money by way of public issue and helping the petitioner in listing the shares of the petitioner in BSE and NSE is a question to be decided during the course of the claim. It is the case of the petitioner that the so called MOU was created by forging the signatures and also by using signed documents given by the petitioner and also to eliminate the petitioner from R1 company. Whether the correspondence alleged by the respondent is voluntarily made by the petitioners or not is a question to be investigated in the trial of the suit and decided. It is a case where crores of money is involved and crores worth of shares are transferred simply basing on cheques and other documents, and therefore, it is necessary to protect the inrest of the petitioner in the property. Though this court insisted for original docu-

the reasoning to the suit transactions, none of the parties choosed to file original ments but they simply supplied Xerox copies and when it is confronted for sing, both of them not agreed for marking the same. The police Nacharam also registered FIR against R2 and it is pending for fraud, cheating etc as published in news papers circulated in Hyderabad.

It is also a question to be considered Whether basing on the undertaking dt:04.09.2012, M/s Lemonade Securities Limited, fraudulently obtained the R1 company or not

- 10. The fraud alleged by the petitioner is to be examined and decided in the issue during the course of trial. At present, there is a prima facie case to show that the amount of the petitioner was diverted and the interest of the petitioner to the R1 company was sold for realisation of loan amount and as such, the relief asked by the petitioner is very limited purpose not to alienate the movable or immovable assets of R1 company and also not to change the Directors of R1 company. If the properties of R1 company are sold by respondents, it leads to multiplicity of proceedings and also cause irreparable loss to the petitioner. Therefore, taking into consideration of the circumstances where specific instances of fraud are pleaded by the respondents, it is fit case to grant temporary injunction against the respondent.
- 11, In the result, the IA.No.1452 of 2013 is allowed restraining the respondents from altering the Board of Directors and share holders of R1 company during the pendency of the suit.

LA.No.1453 of 2013 is allowed restraining the respondents from alienating, selling or creating  $3^{rd}$  party interest over the petition schedule properties during the pendency of the suit. Under the circumstances, both parties shall bear their own costs.

Typed to my dictation, corrected and pronounced by me in the open court on this the  $31^{\rm st}$  day of December, 2014.
