COMMON APPROACHES TO VALUATION

Income Approach

The Income Approach measures the value of an asset by calculating the present value of its future economic benefits. When used to determine Business value, the Income Approach develops an indication of value by discounting forecasted cash flows to their present value at a rate of return that incorporates the risk-free rate for the use of funds plus the expected rate of inflation and the risks associated with the particular investment. The discount rate applied to these expected cash flows is generally based upon rates of return available from alternative investments of similar type and quality. Another discounting method calculates the company's Weighted Average Cost of Capital (“WACC”) from its cost of debt and cost of equity. Forecasts typically cover three to five years, but the reliability of forecasts for valuation purposes in early stage enterprises depends upon many factors, such as the company’s vulnerability to advances in technology, actions by competitors, changes in end-user requirements, & the availability of financing. Selecting the forecast period required our judgment.

The Income Approach works best when development stage companies have progressed to Stage five. Typically, companies in prior stages have limited operating histories and cash flow forecasts. Using the Income Approach when a company has not achieved profitability or positive cash flow, and therefore has negative flows/losses during some or all of the forecast years, results in an equity Value that consists mostly (if not entirely) of the Terminal Value (“TV” is the estimate of the Company’s future value at the end of the forecast period).

Market Approach

The Market Approach measures the value of an asset through an analysis of recent sales of comparable property compared to the property being valued. When applied to the valuation of an equity interest, consideration is given to the financial condition and operating performance of the subject company compared to either publicly traded companies with similar lines of business or recent corporate acquisitions (“Guideline Companies”). Typically, the companies selected for comparison are subject to economic, political, competitive, and technological factors that correspond with those confronting the Company.

The Market Approach is conceptually preferable to the other two approaches both because it uses direct comparisons to similar enterprises and because the analysis is based upon actual market transactions. However, comparables that fit perfectly rarely exist. Privately held companies are compared to publicly traded ones that are typically further along in their stage of development, have superior access to capital, and have common stock that is readily marketable. Often historical results of public companies are being compared to projected results for the private company being valued. In order to reflect these differences, data from the Guideline Companies must be appropriately adjusted.

Asset Approach

The Asset Approach measures the value of an asset by the cost to reconstruct or replace it with another of like utility. When applied to the valuation of equity interests in businesses, value is based on the net aggregate fair market value of the entity's underlying assets.

This approach basically entails a restatement of the balance sheet of the enterprise in which the fair market value of its assets and liabilities are substituted for their book values. This approach is frequently used to value holding companies or capital-intensive firms. It is typically not an appropriate valuation approach for growing operating companies which provide goods or services and which have significant intangible value. The same may be considered in conjunction with other approaches with lower weight age.

SUMMARY OF VALUATION PERFORMED BY H&Co

METHODOLOGY ADOPTED

Valuation of JPFL:

BUV Method

- H&Co has considered the audited consolidated financial statements of JPFL as at 31 March 2014 which was the latest available consolidated balance sheet provided by the management.
- H&Co has made the suitable adjustments for non-operating assets/liabilities where fair value of investments in subsidiaries/associates/mutual funds, any contingent liabilities has been considered.
- Based on the above, the Equity Value of JPFL is arrived under BUV Method.

DCF Method

- H&Co has relied on the projections as provided by management of JPFL for the period from 1 April 2014 to 31 March 2021.
- Cost of Equity has been considered as the discounting factor since H&Co was using the Free Cash Flow to Equity ("FCFE") model of DCF Method and is calculated as per the Capital Asset Pricing Model.
- To the value of the business so arrived, adjustments are made for the value of surplus cash, non-operating assets/liabilities (eg. fair value of investments in subsidiaries/associates/mutual funds, any contingent liabilities, etc.) in order to arrive at the value for the equity shareholders. The total value for the equity holders so arrived has been then divided by the number of equity shares in order to work out the value per equity share of JPFL.

- Based on above, the Equity Value of JPFL is arrived under DCF Method.

Market Price Method:

Since the shares of JPFL are listed on NSE and BSE and are frequently traded, H&Co has considered the market approach for valuation of JPFL. The volume weighted average price of sixty trading days for period ended 2 January 2015 as traded on NSE has been considered to arrive at the valuation of JPFL.

Valuation Conclusion:

To arrive at value of equity shares of JPFL, H&Co has considered it appropriate to give a weight of 1 to the value arrived at under BUW Method, weight of 2 to the values arrived at under the DCF Method and the Market Price Method.

Accordingly, the equity value per share of JPFL is arrived at Rs 482.17

Valuation of Demerged Undertaking of JPL:

BUW Method

- H&Co has considered the audited financial statements of Demerged Undertaking of JPL as at 31 March 2014 which was the latest available balance sheet provided by the management.

Post balance sheet date, material investments made by subsidiaries have also been considered in valuation.

- H&Co has made the suitable adjustments for the value of investments and contingent liabilities to arrive at the value attributable to the Demerged Undertaking.
- Based on the above, the equity value of Demerged Undertaking of JPL is arrived under BUW Method.

DCF Method

- H&Co has relied on the projections as provided by management of JPL for its manufacturing division for the period from 1 April 2014 to 31 March 2019.
- Cost of Equity has been considered as the discounting factor since H&Co is using the Free Cash Flow to Equity ("FCFE") model of DCF Method and is calculated as per the Capital Asset Pricing Model.
- To the value of the business so arrived, adjustments are made for the value of surplus cash, contingent liabilities and value of investments in order to arrive at the value for the equity shareholders. The total value for the equity holders so arrived has been then divided by the number of equity shares in order to work out the value per equity share attributable to Demerged Undertaking of JPL.
- Based on above, the equity value attributable to Demerged Undertaking of JPL is arrived under DCF Method.

Comparable Companies Multiple Method :

- The CCM Method which focuses on the multiples of comparable companies has been considered in the valuation exercise. The average EV / EBITDA multiple of diversified manufacturing sector which is sub-set of companies prepared by Bloomberg has been considered. H&Co has discounted the average EV/EBITDA of diversified manufacturing sector on account of stress on JPL's manufacturing business to arrive at adjusted EV/EBITDA multiple. The adjusted EV/EBITDA multiple have been multiplied with the maintainable EBITDA of Manufacturing Division of JPL to arrive at the enterprise value of Manufacturing Division of JPL.
- The business value has been adjusted for cash and bank balance, debt and contingent liabilities and the value of investments to arrive at the value available to the equity shareholders of JPL for the proposed Demerged Undertaking.

Valuation Conclusion

- To arrive at value of equity shares of JPL, H&Co has considered it appropriate to give a weight of 1 to the value arrived at under BUV Method, weight of 2 to the values arrived at under the DCF Method and the CCM Method.

Accordingly, the equity value per share of JPL attributable to the Demerged Undertaking is arrived at Rs. 81.75

CONCLUSION

SUMMARY OF SWAP RATIO DETERMINED BY H&Co.

The entitlement ratio as recommended by H&Co. is 10 shares of Rs. 10 each of JPFL for 59 shares of Rs. 10 each of Demerged Undertaking of JPL.

It is noted that the valuation was performed assuming that the Companies will continue in operation in unhindered manner for the future as at present on a pre demerger standalone basis (going concern).

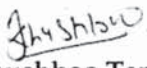

The method considered in the valuation is appropriate and reasonable for the subject companies.

Subject to the assumptions presented herein, in our opinion the values and swap ratio derived by H&Co are fair considering circumstances and purpose of valuation.
