Mumbai: Tata Motors has hired Accenture to chart an organisational restructuring and performance improvement programme, as the nation's largest automotive maker by revenue seeks to become nimbler in a market where competition is intensifying by the day and the firm is being considered too bureaucratic on decision-making.

Accenture started working on the project a few weeks ago and its mandate includes increasing the output of the auto maker's nearly 28,000 employees, said people with direct knowledge of the matter. The goal is to achieve certain benchmarks across the company, from the shop floor to the sales office in each of its divisions, and the results are likely to be seen in the coming 12-18 months, they said. Accenture directed questions on the contract to Tata Motors.

A spokeswoman at the auto maker said Accenture was working with the firm to achieve greater organisational effectiveness, "but that's a more generic, organisational project from HR". 'Organisational effectiveness' can include a large gamut of matters, such as

New Delhi: It's not just the incessant rains that are flooding the roads this monsoon.

Triggered by tumbling demand, luxury carmakers are offering freebies and steep discounts that shave off more than ₹5 lakh from the price of popular models such as the BMW 5 Series, Audi A3 and the Mercedes-Benz E-Class.

Customers can buy their favourite cars without making a down payment or avail of interest-free finance in a market that has stagnated
