L&T Infotech Named a Leader for Application Outsourcing Services by Top Independent Research Firm

LTI cited for its industry sector expertise in addition to technical skills

Mumbai – December 15, 2016 – Leading global IT services and solutions provider L&T Infotech (NSE: LTI, BSE: 540005) announced today that it has been cited as a Leader in The Forrester Wave™: Application Outsourcing Capabilities Of Midsize Offshore Vendors, Q4 2016. LTI achieved the highest possible score for Robotic Process Automation, sector specific IP, lab/co-innovation center, omni-channel application development, BI platform capabilities, packaged software implementation, and application maintenance and support automation criteria.

LTI's scores are consistently above average across digital customer experience, digital operational excellence, analytics, and business applications. LTI was cited as a good fit for finance, manufacturing, oil and gas, life sciences, and media & entertainment sectors, especially when the ask involves more than technical skills and warrant industry sector expertise. LTI was also cited by a client as a rare outsourcing partner with engineers that have industry knowledge.

Commenting on the achievement, Sanjay Jalona, CEO and Managing Director, LTI said, "Being cited as a leader in this report is a reflection of our deep domain expertise and unmatched client centricity. We will continue to invest in capabilities that help our clients become more competitive in a world where digital and physical are converging"

LTI is aggressively building strengths as a next generation, best-of-breed services partner. The company recently acquired AugmentIQ - an innovative start-up offering IP-based, big data and analytics solutions across industries.

The evaluation methodology for the Forrester Wave involved a thorough assessment of vendors on their offerings, strategy and market presence and was justifiably backed by extensive client references and feedback. The participating vendors are featured under the categories of Leaders, Strong Performers, Contenders, and Challengers based on their performance and ranking.
