Arabic Computer Services Ltd. Selects Solix for Big Data Transformation

Saudi Arabia's leading information technology company plans to harness big data analytics on Apache Hadoop.

March 25, 2016 — Santa Clara, California — Solix Technologies, Inc., leading provider of Enterprise Data Management Solutions (EDMS) for Apache Hadoop, announced today that Arabic information technology company Arabic Computer Services Ltd. (ACS) has selected the Solix Big Data Suite for Information Lifecycle Management (ILM) and advanced analytics on Apache Hadoop.

ACS will resell the Solix Big Data Suite solution to its customers, offering low cost, scalable and bulk storage for structuring, archiving and retiring data on Apache Hadoop. Enterprise archiving on Apache Hadoop creates a foundation for advanced big data analytics applications, giving customers valuable insight into their data.

The partnership with Solix will strengthen the data management solutions of Arabic Computer Systems, Ltd. (ACS) by providing customers with database archiving, data masking, test data management, and application retirement solutions for packaged as well as custom database applications. Availing these best-in-class enterprise data management solutions, organizations can:

- Improve application performance
- Reduce maintenance costs
- Mask and protect sensitive test data
- Create database subsets and clones
- Decommission legacy applications
- Archive and access data based on compliance and regulations

"We recognize the need to provide end-to-end solutions to our clients. With our deep domain expertise backed by a sound understanding of how the enterprise technology and business process landscape needs to evolve, this partnership with Solix will provide the right framework", commented Ibrahim AlZeer, MD of Arabic Computer Systems Ltd., "Our association with Solix will help our customers align their data and analytics strategy with the rapidly evolving business landscape."

"We look forward to working with Arabic Computer Services to provide a common data platform for enterprises within the greater Middle Eastern market," said Sai Gundavelli, CEO and Founder of Solix Technologies, Inc.
