World Bank warns of learning crisis in countries like India

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
 Washington, September 27

THE WORLD BANK has warned of a learning crisis in global education, particularly in low and middle-income countries like India, underlining that schooling without learning is not just a wasted development opportunity, but also a great injustice to children worldwide.
 The Bank in its latest report on Wednesday, noted that millions of young students in these countries face the prospect of lost opportunity and lower wages in later life because their primary and secondary schools are failing to educate them to succeed in life.
 According to the 'World Development Report 2018: Learning to Realise Education's Promise', India ranks second after Malawi in a list of 12 countries wherein a grade two student could not read a single word of a short text. India also tops the list of seven countries in which a grade two student could not perform two-digit subtraction.
 "In rural India, just under three-quarters of students in grade 3 could not solve a two-digit subtraction such as 46 - 17, and by grade 5 half could still not do so," the World Bank said.
 The report argued that without learning, education will fail to deliver on its promise to eliminate poverty and create shared opportunity and prosperity for all. "Even after several years in school, millions of children can't read, write or do basic math. This learning crisis is widening social gaps instead of narrowing them," it said.
