Aditya Ghosh resigns as IndiGo president

Major top-level rejig at airline

FE BUREAU
Mumbai 27 April

THE COUNTRY'S LARGEST airline IndiGo, in a stock exchange filing on Friday, said that it has accepted the resignation of its president and whole-time director, Aditya Ghosh, and its director Rahul Bhatia will be their interim chief executive officer of the airline.

There are indications that the company will also announce the appointment of Gregory Taylor as senior adviser to the company, reporting directly to Bhawani. He is also an aviation veteran and has held various important positions at IndiGo, United Airlines and US Airways.

Ghosh, who is a CABY profession, has been IndiGo's President since 2008 and has been instrumental in the steady rise of IndiGo from the time it launched operations in August 2006 with a single aircraft, to the country's largest airline with a nearly 40% market share and a 161 aircraft fleet.

Sources within the airline say that the move is not a sudden one and there have been signs that Ghosh might move out of the airline. Ghosh has not been attending the regular head of department meets at the airline for over a month now and IndiGo has been staffing maps, they being one of them, for all important functions of the airline like revenue management eventually the current COO, Wolfgang Prock-Schauer, whom IndiGo hired three months back, might take over as the CEO of the airline. Prock-Schauer has been an industry veteran with experience of running airlines across Europe and Asia, and also has good experience in India.

"We thank Aditya for all his hard work and contributions and for the successes that the company has enjoyed," Bhatia said in the release.

Ghosh in a statement said that it was time for him to step off the treadmill and sometime in the near future embark on his next adventure.
